CENTRE READY TO BRING FUEL UNDER GST, SAYS PURI

The Centre is ready to bring petrol and diesel under the GST regime but it is unlikely that the states will agree to such a move, Petroleum and Natural Gas Minister Hardeep Singh Puri said on Monday in Srinagar. "For bringing petrol and diesel under GST, the states have to agree. If the states make the move, we are ready. The question of how to implement it should be addressed to the finance minister," Puri said | P13

Religious conversion by force dangerous, says SC

Warns it could affect national security, seeks affidavit from Centre

SHRUTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

TERMING the issue of fraudulent and forced religious conversions serious and dangerous, the Supreme Court on Monday asked the Centre to file an affidavit by November 22 specifying further steps it could take to prevent it.

A bench of justices M R Shah and Hima Kohli said, "Everyone has right to freedom of religion but not by forced conversion. It's a very dangerous thing." It added that the issue might affect the security of the nation as well as the freedom of religion and conscience of the citizens.

"The issue with respect to alleged conversion of religion, if it is found to be correct and true, is a very serious issue which may ultimately affect the security of the nation as well as the freedom of religion and conscience of the citizens. Therefore, it is better that Union government may make their stand clear and file counter on what further steps can be taken by Union and/or others to curb such forced conversions," the court said.

Responding to Solicitor General Tushar Mehta's contention that religious conversion is rampant in tribal areas, the bench said, "You have to step in now."

The court's remarks came on a plea filed by BJP leader Ashwini Upadhyay, who sought a declaration that religious conversion by fraud, intimidation, threat and deceit as violative of fundamental rights. "There is not even one district which is free of religious conversion by hook and crook and the carrot and the stick," the plea stated. It was also argued that the situation is alarming as many individuals and organisations are carrying out mass conversions of SC-STs in rural areas.

"The mass conversion of socially, economically underprivileged people, particularly belonging to SC-ST, has been on a steep rise for the last 2 decades. These organisations operate very smoothly targeting socially, economically underprivileged sections particularly belonging to the SC-ST community," the plea alleged.

PETITION FILED IN THE WAKE OF LAVANYA SUICIDE

The plea, filed in the wake of the suicide of 17-year-old Lavanya in TN early this year, sought stringent steps to control conversion. Alternatively, he sought directions to the Law Commission to prepare a report as well as a bill to control "Deceit Religious Conversion"

Sebi nod clears decks for Adani's NDTV grab

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) has paved the way for billionaire Gautam Adani taking control of New Delhi Television Ltd (NDTV) by giving the regulatory nod to the Adani Group to float an open offer for acquiring another 26% stake in the media company. Sebi's nod brings an end to the legal tussle between Pannoy and Rahika Roy-promoted NDTV and Adani Group over the control of the broadcaster.

Gautam Adani wanted to float an open offer in October itself, but it was delayed for want of the regulator's approval. It has now been rescheduled from November 22 to December 5, during which period NDTV shareholders can tender their shares to Adani Group at a predetermined price.

The Adani Group is offering ₹294 for each share of NDTV in the open offer. On Monday, NDTV shares closed at ₹365.

Adanis already hold a 29.18% stake in the New Delhi-based firm after they acquired Vishvapradhan Commercial Private Limited (VCPL) — which owned warrants of NDTV's promoter entity RRPR Holding — and exercised the option to convert them into equity. If the open offer goes through, Adanis will have over 55% stake in NDTV.

Radhika and Prannoy Roy together hold 32% in NDTV.

It all started when Adani Group firm AMG Media Networks Limited bought VCPL for ₹114 crore in August this year. VCPL then decided to exercise its rights to convert those warrants into shares amounting to 99.5% of RRPR.

RRPR held 29.18% in NDTV.

NDTV promoters tried to avert the hostile takeover saying the market regulator had barred NDTV's founder-promoters from dealing in their shares for two years. NDTV promoters fired another salvo on September 1, 2022 saying VCPL needed the tax department's nod for exercising its right to convert its warrants.

KMF does a flip-flop on milk, curd price hike

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN a flip-flop, the Karnataka Milk Federation (KMF) issued an order on Monday morning hiking prices of milk and curd by ₹3 per litre, but put the order on hold by evening after Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai intervened.

The KMF order was signed by its chairman Balachandra Jarkiholi, stating that prices will be hiked with effect from November 15. However, the CM said that a meeting will be convened on November 20 to take a decision on the price revision.

The KMF chairman said, "The order was issued based on a decision taken in the board meeting following discussions with milk unions. The farmers have been demanding a hike of ₹5 per litre for the last 10 months. The ₹3 per litre hike is the middle path we had taken. In the evening, the CM spoke to me over the phone and told me that the order should be put on hold till November 20."

KMF officials said that soon after the order, the process of printing the revised rates on milk and curd packets had begun, which has to be stopped now. The farmers will also have to be convinced of the decision. Sources in the government told TNIE that the KMF was going the Kerala way, which went ahead with the hike without the chief minister's approval. P5

Day after BBMP tars road, it is dug up again

Residents allege lack of coordination between agencies, BWSSB denies role

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

RESIDENTS of Vinayaka Nagar in Mahadevapura were left in the lurch after a newly tarred ward road was dug up just within 48 hours after the roads were fixed. The development has once again reflected the poor coordination between civic agencies in the IT capital.

According to Manoj Kumar, a resident, two roads in Vinayaka Nagar were tarred on November 10. However, the very next day, one of them was dug up again. "I went and asked the labourers and the supervisor about digging the new road. They claimed it was for water connection work," said Kumar.

Manoj added that the road was in a bad condition from the last one year, as the BBMP had not tarred it, and when it did, it was dug open on either side once again.

Also, a video clip has gone viral, where residents are seen criticising both the BBMP and BWSSB, for their alleged lack of coordination.

While the residents suspect it to be a lack of coordination between the two civic agencies, the water board denied digging the road. "We have not done it. It looks like someone else has... perhaps a private borewell connection," said Venu Gopal, Executive Engineer, BWSSB.

BBMP Ward Engineer from Varthur, Venkatesh, claimed ignorance about the road-digging work, and stated that no permission was given. "We don't know who is digging the newly-tarred road. I will go and check it. Earlier too, people have dug up roads without our permission and were slapped with BBMP notices," he said.

Meanwhile, Zonal Incharge Commissioner Dr Trilok Chandra has warned that action will be initiated against anyone caught 'spoiling' BBMP roads, and even if the BWSSB or any other agency has done it without following rules or taking permission, those responsible will be pulled up.

City to be major contributor to pvt defence biz

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

WITH the Indian defence sector moving towards 'indigenous modernisation', Bengaluru stands to contribute in a major way towards this objective, thanks to its position as a technology hub.

Vice Chief of Army Staff Lt Gen B S Raju on Monday said the Indian Army is gearing up for a major modernisation drive over the next decade, and Bengaluru has great potential to contribute in this realm. "We still have some way to go before we can call ourselves a reasonable power in the defence manufacturing space. The Indian Army is gearing up for major modernisation in the next 10-15 years, specifically 'indigenous modernisation'. This process will involve a large number of upgrades to our existing platforms, as well as purchase of new state-of-the-art equipment," he said.

Speaking at the inauguration of the Regional Technology Node - Bengaluru (RTN-B), which is the second such node to be established by the Army Design Bureau in the country, Lt Gen Raju said, "The primary task of the Army Design Bureau is to engage and collaborate with industry and academia to ensure full visibility of what the Army needs, to get a full understanding of what the industry is capable of, and to bring these two capabilities together to achieve what we need. We realise there is far-greater potential in Bengaluru, which has become a hub for engineering colleges and other academic institutions, as well as for private manufacturers. The city also has a lot of defence sector undertakings. There is a beautiful ecosystem here and there is a need to harvest it."

Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar with Vice Chief of Army Staff Lt Gen BS Raju at the inauguration of the second RTN-B of Army Design Bureau, at ASC Centre & College in Bengaluru on Monday.

Meanwhile, the node will act as a way for private Bengaluru-based defence companies and startups, as well as academia, to engage with the Army in developing products. Lt Gen Raju said there is strong emphasis on self-reliance in the country, since this is what will contribute to India's comprehensive power. "I am confident that this will allow the private sector to dive into the defence ecosystem, especially as the opportunities are immense. The Indian Army has already identified the technologies that are required for its future development, and accelerating this process is of immediate priority. For this, we need active participation from the private sector," he said.

In this regard, he added that the Army has already identified over 20 products, each with a value of Rs 200-300 crore.

Last date to submit CLAT application is November 18

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE last date for submission of online applications for the Common Law Admission Test (CLAT) 2023 has been extended.

The Consortium of National Law Universities (CNLU) announced that the last date for submitting online applications for CLAT 2023 has been extended till November 18 at 11.59 pm. Previously, the same deadline was November 13. Applications had opened on August 8, 2022. According to sources within CNLU, the extension had been given as a result of demands from law aspirants, who had sought the same citing several difficulties.

CLAT is a national-level entrance exam for seeking admission into undergraduate and postgraduate law programmes offered by various National Law Universities in the country. The test is scheduled to be held on December 18.

5 KIDS AWARDED FOR BRAVERY

ENS @ Bengaluru

Five children were awarded for their bravery by the Department of Women and Child Development, on the occasion of Children's Day, at Bal Bhavan.

All the five hail from rural backgrounds, and were conferred the Hoysala and Keladi Chennamma Bravery Awards for displaying various acts of bravery over the last year.

The awards are bestowed by the department on children who have shown commitment towards the rescue of others in dangerous circumstances. The four girls and one boy were honoured at the Children's Day State Awards Ceremony on Monday.

On November 6, 2021, Namrata, from Madikeri, had saved a senior citizen from drowning in a lake on her way home from school. Prarthana, from Shivamogga, had saved her brother's life after he was electrocuted by a TV switch board at their home on November 7, 2021.

Koushalya Hegade, from Siddapura, saved her father following an accident. After their car overturned, she made her way to a nearby village to call for help, as her father had suffered severe injury. Keerthi Vivek, from Davanagere, also endured a similar ordeal, when his family car fell into a trench, jamming all its doors. He used a metal water bottle to smash a car window, and was able to pull his sister and parents to safety, following which he called for help. Kavya Bhaskar Hegde, from Chikkamagaluru, was on her way home when she found an elderly woman lying on a railway track, and rushed in to save her after she saw a train approaching. The five children were also presented a cash prize of Rs 10,000.

The ceremony included awards distributed to four organisations and four individuals for their services rendered in the field of children's welfare.

Kempegowda statue will be open to all visitors soon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IT-BT Minister and vice-chairman of Kempegowda Heritage Area Development Authority Dr CN Ashwath Narayan on Monday said special arrangements will be provided for visitors keen to see the 108-feet bronze statue of Nadaprabhu Kempegowda at the Bengaluru airport.

Meeting officials on Monday, Narayan said that since the number of visitors to see the statue is increasing, and following news that the visitors were not allowed in, it has been decided that special arrangements will be made in this regard.

He said that since work related to the development of the Kempegowda Theme Park is still under way, it has been decided that visitors will be facilitated to reach the statue from the IOC fuel station-side. "Parking facilities for the public would be provided for a maximum of 80 vehicles behind the fuel station, which would be made available in a week.

Each visitor is allowed to stay at the spot for 30 minutes. The arrangements being made at the moment are temporary, while more of such facilities will be put in place after work on the theme park is completed," he said.

The minister asserted that no fees will be collected from those visiting the statue, and added that lighting arrangements are also being made at the venue to make it more attractive during the night.

Refund excess fees to students: HC to Rajarajeshwari Medical College

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday directed Rajarajeshwari Medical College to refund the excess amount collected from medical students, over and above the fee prescribed by the state government for the academic year 2017-18 to 2020-21, with 6 per cent interest, as a recommendation made by the Admission Overseeing Committee.

Prohibiting the college from collecting excess fees from students for the remainder of the MBBS course, the court directed the state government to issue general directions to all colleges in this regard.

Further, the court directed the government to direct all colleges, including Rajarajeshwari Medical College, not to collect the excess fee, over and above the fee fixed by the state government and the KEA. "If the state government is really interested in the welfare of citizens, it is high-time that it issues such general directions," the court said.

A division bench of justices B Veerappa and KS Hemalekha passed the order by allowing a batch of petitions filed by one G Harish and other students of Rajarajeshwari Medical College. MBBS seats were allotted to them through counselling for the academic year 2017-18 by the KEA.

After their admissions, the college demanded an excess fee for First-year MBBS. Now the students, who are in the Final -year of MBBS, have moved court in this regard.

The college's counsel argued that the students had voluntarily paid the fee. Rejecting it, the court said the college, in all fairness, should have directed the students not to pay the excess fee, if the institution was running for education with good intention. "Being an educational institution, it should act like a 'Guru'," the high court said.

PETER VIDAL

15TH November : There's a fascinating planetary aspect at the moment, linking the Sun to Neptune. Here's what one of my old books, written around 1900, says about it: 'Promotes peace and prosperity in the land, and goodwill between the people and their rulers. Gives success to Monarch and Government through popularity or good luck'.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
A partner seems to have stolen your thunder. Perhaps they're playing the game by your rules, neutralising your normal defences. Your next move should be to go on a charm-offensive. After all, if other people like you, they're less likely to block your way. That stands to reason, doesn't it?

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Is there any break from hard work? Well, actually, no there isn't! I hope you don't mind, because if you're honest you'll see that all current chores were taken on voluntarily at one time or another. And if you don't like it then it's a lesson to you to say 'no' in future.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
In spite of life's little ups and downs, today's background patterns convey a sense of relief and an ability to relax. Artistic and creative Geminians should now begin to get ready to enjoy themselves! Remember what they say - all work and no play makes you very dull indeed.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Domestic chores and family relationships beckon. Please don't imagine that other people are going to do what they're told. You may find consolation in the fact that they will soon be proved wrong! Mind you, they might expect you to make it all right again!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Mercury, planet of communication, is teamed up with Jupiter, ruler of wisdom. What a splendid combination that is. Don't ruin it by taking the world for granted. And, at work, listen to the experts - before it's too late! Actually, there is fun to be had, so don't pass on important invitations.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Forget your daily chores. Forget the need to pay the bills. Forget all those difficult people. Today's planetary patterns speak of wisdom and enlightenment, of love and passion, so look to your heart and prepare for the future - and pay top attention to family pressures.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
There's a ninety percent chance of an amazing social invitation. But that's not all, for there's a ten percent chance that such an invitation will change your life for ever. So, don't turn down any offer without careful consideration. Remember, the future is bright.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Have you ever fancied being the boss? Well, happily your stars are giving you a kick up the professional ladder. Even retired and leisured Scorpios are bound to feel the celestial benefits. Those of you pursuing romantic hopes, though, could find your costs increasing. Hopefully it will be worth it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
There's a very particular and special celestial formation today. What is so unique is that a wonderful planetary alignment, signifying great good fortune, comes and goes very quickly. The trouble is that other people may not be saying what they mean, so have your wits about you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Like all the other twelve signs your stars contain much that is fortunate, but luck itself will prove a very elusive quality. You are due to come into some money but, whether it's a tiny amount, a medium quantity, or a huge pile, the stars won't say. At least, not for now!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Pride comes before a fall, as they say. It's one thing to take pleasure in your achievements, but please don't make the very serious mistake of being smug! Make this a day for generosity in all things. And challenge partners who have failed to keep to their word.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You can rest on your laurels. You may also brag a little, especially if others have been too slow to recognise just what a lot of effort you have been putting in your relationships lately. You can't make people do what you want - but you can try!

Scolded for copying, 16-yr-old student ends life

Parents protest in front of school with girl's body; Principal defends teacher

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN yet another incident, a 16-year-old SSLC student hanged herself at her house in Pillareddy Nagar in Banasawadi on Sunday evening, after she was caught copying in an examination. Blaming the teacher for the incident, the parents and relatives of the vicitm brought her body in front of the school and staged a protest on Monday.

The deceased Amrutha is the only child of the Anantkumar and Asha. She was a student of Mariam Nilaya School in Dodda Banasawadi.

Police said Amrutha was caught copying from a chit by her teacher Shalini during the Social Science exams last week. The teacher had reprimanded her in front of other teachers, and has also allegedly chided her over the same issue in the classroom for the next four to five days after the exam. "She was alone in the house on Sunday evening as her parents had gone out. They returned to find Amrutha hanging. She has left a note stating that she was unable to forget what happened in the school, and that she can't live with the guilt. She has also apologised to her parents in the letter for taking the extreme step," the police said.

Based on a preliminary probe and the complaint filed by her father, the Ramamurthy Nagar police have registered an unnatural death report. The police are yet to record the statement of the teachers, students and school staff.

On Monday morning, Children's Day for Mariam Nilaya School in Banasawadi was marked by grieving parents and relatives, who brought the casket of their daughter to the school gates.

Amrutha's parents blamed the school for pushing her to take the extreme step, and demanded action be taken against the school and the teacher. Speaking to media persons, the school authorities said that they were unaware of the incident until Monday, and had not been in contact with Amrutha since Thursday. "She had written her exams on Wednesday and Thursday. Friday was a holiday, and on Saturday, she was apparently feeling unwell, so she had not come to school," said Irine Albuquerque, the school principal.

Defending the teacher's action, she said that the teacher was not responsible for the death of the girl. "When she saw that Amrutha was cheating, she reprimanded her. We had called her parents to inform them of the incident, and they had also admitted that she had cheated, and scolded her for it. We have definite proof that she was cheating during the exam," she said. However, speaking to TNIE, she said that the school is awaiting the results of the police investigation to take action.

Second incident in a week

On November 8, Moin Khan (16) a Class 10 student of a private school, was caught copying in an exam. As he was sent out of the classroom by the teacher, he entered an apartment and jumped to death from the 14th floor, in the Sampigehalli police station limits.

CALLS FROM UP, BENGAL

Man clicks on payment link, loses ₹2.05 lakh

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

A 59-year-old freelance accountant ended up losing Rs2.05 lakh instead of the paying an outstanding amount of Rs11 for electricity after an unidentified caller, masquerading as a Bescom official, threatened him of disconnecting power supply over the outstanding amount.

The accountant, Ravi Shankar Raman, a resident of Kannamangala on the Hosakote Main Road, was sent a link by the fraudster, which he was asked to click on to pay the bill online. As soon he accessed the link, Rs2.05 lakh was transferred from his account to that of the accused.

"In fact, there was no outstanding amount as the bills of previous months were cleared on time. However, over the last three days, I kept getting messages to clear the pending bill. I made a mistake that I had called the number from where the message was sent. The conman sent a link, and asked me to download it. There was Rs 11 due. The accused took control of my mobile phone and transferred around Rs 2.05 lakh from my account to his account," Raman told TNIE, who has filed a complaint with the Whitefield CEN police station, last week.

The accused Vinay Kumar, has swindled money from two accounts of the victim.

"Many customers tried to pay the electricity bill by clicking on the link sent by the fraudsters, and have lost money. Bescom neither calls its customers or sends any message to alert them about payment of electricity bills. Despite repeated awareness campaigns by Bescom on social media, some customers have been trapped by cyber fraudsters," stated SR Nagaraj, General Manager (Customer Relations), Bescom, in a recent complaint which Bescom had filed with the CEN police station.

BESCOM had filed a com- plaint seeking criminal action against online fraudsters who have conned consumers claiming to be electricity officers. Few customers who had received such messages had complained to the 1912 helpline.

"Most of such messages are sent from West Bengal and Uttar Pradesh," said an officer.

DUO ORDERS FOOD ON FAKE DELIVERY APPS, DUPED OF ₹2.4 LAKH

Bengaluru: The East Division CEN police have filed a case against unknown persons for allegedly creating fake food delivery applications, and duping people of Rs2.4 lakh. Based on a complaint by two victims, police have launched an operation to track down the accused. The police said that Deepika, a software engineer in a private company, and Imran Baigh, a businessman, had placed the orders on the apps through social media after reading about offers on the apps. The conmen then contacted the victims over phone regarding payment issues, and sent them links to repay their bills. Once they clicked on the links, they lost Rs 2.4 lakh from their bank accounts and credit cards. Preliminary investigation has revealed that the accused used the same SIM to contact both of them, but the money was transferred to different bank accounts. A special team has been formed to nab the accused. The fake apps were created and put on Google Play store, and links were sent to people, said a senior police official, adding that since most transactions for such purposes are made online, we are trying to create awareness about online fraud to curb the rise in cases.

AYUSHMAN TO COVER HALF OF K'TAKA BY DEC: SUDHAKAR

Bengaluru: Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said on Monday that Ayushman Bharat cards will be distributed to more than half of the state's population by December. "One crore cards have been prepared in a short span. Karnataka has emerged as a model state in the country in terms of distributing Ayushman Bharat cards, which covers 50 per cent of the eligible population in Karnataka. They will be distributed by December," he said, adding that full coverage will be achieved by March 2023. "The aim is to distribute AB-ARK cards to all eligible citizens by next March. Karnataka has been proactive in extending its healthcare services and providing the best possible health coverage to beneficiaries. Chikkabalapur, Haveri and Bangaluru Rural districts have performed exceedingly well with registrations reaching around 1/3rd of their target population. on November 11, registration of one crore cards has been successfully completed," he said. ENS

IB officer case: Mysuru civic body orders razing building

Mysuru: Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) on Monday served an official 24-hour ultimatum to Madappa, neighbour of former Intelligence Bureau (IB) Officer late R N Kulkarni at Sharadadevinagar in TK Layout, for razing down the illegally constructed part of his house adjacent to the residence of the former IB officer. Kulkarni was murdered by Madappa's younger son, who knocked him down with a car. The crime was allegedly carried out in revenge after Kulkarni took up a legal battle against Madappa over a property issue. Mysuru police cracked the case in three days after the case was initially thought of being a hit-and-run case, which was later established as a planned murder.

NOTHING WRONG IN PAINTING CLASSROOMS SAFFRON, SAYS CM

Launches Viveka programme to construct 7,601 classrooms across state

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburagi

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said there is nothing wrong in painting classrooms saffron in government schools.

Launching the 'Viveka Shala Kothadigala Nirmana', a state government programme to construct and repair classrooms, at Madiyal thanda of Kalaburagi taluk, Bommai wanted to know what is wrong in launching the new scheme named after Swami Vivekananda and in painting classrooms saffron, as the national flag too has it.

Flagging off the construction of 7,601 classrooms, he said the intention of the government is to impart good knowledge (viveka) to students. "It has become a habit for opposition parties to criticise everything the government does," he added.

This is the first time in the history of the state that such a large scheme aimed at improving the condition of classrooms has been taken up. On the same day, the construction and repair of 7,601 classrooms will start in all the 224 Assembly constituencies in the state, he added. "Our government aims to construct 8,000 classrooms per year, and the programme should continue for two more years. After three years, the entire need for new classrooms would have been taken care of," he added.

In Kalyana Karnataka, the construction of 1,060 classrooms has been sanctioned and the approval will be given for another 900 classrooms soon. The government has approved the appointment of 15,000 teachers this year, and of them, 5,000 will be for Kalyana Karnataka, he said.

The government has sanctioned Rs 250 crore for the construction of toilets, including separate washrooms for girls, in all government schools. It will be completed by August 15 next year, he added.

Defending the decision to introduce yoga in schools from the next academic year, he said, "It will help students improve their concentration and health. Children can learn well only if they are healthy."

Nehru took India to intl arena: Bommai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said the credit for taking India to the international arena goes to the first Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru.

Speaking after garlanding the statue of Nehru on his birth anniversary on Monday, the CM said Nehru had worked closely with Mahatma Gandhi and worked hard for the development of the nation.

As the first Prime Minister of India, Nehru laid the foundation for many development projects, the CM said. He worked commendably at the international level for the Non Alignment Movement (NAM) and India is still playing a major role in the forum, the CM said. The CM said the government is celebrating Nehru's birthday in a meaningful manner.

Tipu statue: Intellectuals not amused

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@Bengaluru

AFTER Mysuru MLA Tavneer Sait announced that a 100-foot-tall Tipu Sultan statue will be erected, intellectuals from the Muslim community from Bengaluru and Mysuru said the comment is a reflection of misplaced priorities.

Tazaiyun Oomer, a woman activist and secretary of the NGO Humane Touch that has conducted over 2,000 marriages of the poor, said the MLA is doing more damage to the Muslim community. "Instead of a statue, our community needs access to quality education, improved health facilities and low-cost housing. It is absurd to spend huge amounts of public funds to erect a statue that may be vandalised in future," she said.

Society is not going to benefit from a Tipu statue. It is against the ethics of Islam. Also, the statue may trigger communal tensions as some elements may take advantage of the issue, she said.

Echoing similar sentiments, Ameen Mudassar, founder and CEO of CIGMA Foundation, said it is completely a political move. "Tipu's stature cannot be brought down to the level of a statue and he should not be used by politicians for their political gains. Tipu's contribution and valour are known across the world. Tipu does not need a statue," he added.

Prof Mussafar Assadi, a political scientist and analyst, said, "Instead of a statue, let there be seminars on Tipu's teachings and bravery. The focus should be on his secular values. The leaders can think about taking sericulture to the next level or giving land to the downtrodden and Dalits. If these things are done, it will be a mark of respect to Tipu. But definitely not a statue."

WINNING KOLAR MAY NOT BE EASY FOR SIDDU

Opposition leader Siddaramaiah speaks to reporters in Mysuru on Monday | EXPRESS

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

DID Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah do his research properly before hinting that he could contest from Kolar? Giving the breakup of the voter demographic of the constituency, his supporters said Siddaramaiah's support would come from 28,000-30,000 Vokkaligas, 26,000 Kurubas, 45,000 Muslims and SCs, 10,000 STs and 11,000 other smaller OBCs.

While Congress MLAs, like Ramesh Kumar from Srinivaspur, Narayanswamy from Bangarpet and KY Nanjegowda from Malur, are working hard to get Siddaramaiah to contest from here, experts said MLAs who are facing anti-incumbency would gain from this, but the senior leader himself could lose if he is not careful.

His supporters said Marasu Vokkligas, who are in huge numbers in Kolar, don't support JDS like Gangadikara Vokkaligas do. Sharat Bache Gowda, Krishna Byre Gowda and Srinivas Gowda can deliver Kolar Vokkaliga votes to Siddaramaiah on a platter. But it is easier said than done, say locals. Though his supporters said MLCs Nazir Ahmed and Govindaraj will help Siddaramaiah, locals pointed out that their influence is limited.

While some observers said that Siddaramaiah might be choosing an easier option by moving out of the Gangadikar Vokkaliga heartland, others said Kolar could still be an unsafe gamble. If he has to succeed, he should win over KH Muniyappa. But why neither Muniyappa nor his daughter MLA Roopkala Shashidhar turned up for the mega Siddaramaiah event on Sunday, they asked.

His supporters said around 10,000 Christians would support Siddaramaiah, but others said around 10,000 Brahmins and Lingayats would not. The constituency also has 10,000 Balijas, who may not support him.

The Congress' situation is so bad that Siddaramaiah will not win from any constituency. It has become a habit for him to change the constituency when elections are nearing

It's a democracy, anyone can contest from anywhere: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

OPPOSITION leader Siddaramaiah on Monday strongly condemned Chittapur BJP leader Manikant Rathode's open threat to shoot KPCC spokesperson and MLA Priyank Kharge, terming it a threat to democracy.

"Threatening writers, intellectuals, journalists and opposition leaders is not a good development and BJP is nurturing this attitude among some people," he told reporters and said the Union government is pursuing vendetta politics.

"Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Home Minister Araga Jnandera are also part of this. The Constitution has ensured the right to freedom of speech and expression. But BJP wants to infringe upon freedom of speech by creating fear among those rising dissident voices against the government," the Congress leader said.

Asked about BJP and JDS leaders slamming him for his plans to contest from Kolar, he said, "Anyone can contest from anywhere in a democracy. I will contest as per the wish of the people. If people want me to, I will contest from Kolar, or from Varuna. It depends on the Congress high command."

To a query on senior JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy's claim of giving a political rebirth to Siddaramaiah on two occasions when he was with the regional party, he said he, "I have contested and won eight elections. Where was Kumaraswamy? Kumaraswamy entered politics in the 1996 Lok Sabha election. Didn't I win elections before that?"

Gowda to visit all seats before Assembly polls

JDS supremo HD Deve Gowda on Monday refused to comment on the unveiling of the 108-foot-tall bronze statue of Nadaprabhu Kempegowda in Bengaluru, for which, his party had claimed that he was not invited. Indirectly expressing dissatisfaction, Gowda said he is not interested in commenting on any issues in this regard.

Before visiting his hometown Haradanahalli on Monday, he said journalist Sugata Srinivasaraju had tweeted about the programme that triggered a statewide debate on the Statue of Prosperity.

Gowda said he will tour all Assembly segments to strengthen the party before the 2023 Assembly elections. Senior party leaders are developing strategies for the polls and he is planning to spend a full day in each Assembly constituency. He will also attend the winter session in Parliament.

Later, Gowda, his wife Channamma, son HD Revanna and daughter-in-law Bhavani Revanna offered puja at Eshwar temple to mark the first Kartika Somavara (first Monday) in Haradanahalli.

ED grills DKS in National Herald case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi, Bengaluru

KPCC president DK Shivakumar on Monday appeared before the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) in New Delhi for a fresh round of questioning in the National Herald money laundering case.

Speaking to the media later, he said, "During questioning today, the authorities asked for some documentary information which I submitted. They also asked for some other documents which I will submit in the next few days."

He said the probe agency also asked for an account for every rupee that he had donated to Young Indian, which managed National Herald. "I will give documents related to it."

Asked if he has been summoned again, Shivakumar said, "As of now, they have asked for the documents, but there is no information about the next date of hearing."

To a query if the government is exerting pressure through ED to ensure that he and his brother join BJP, he said, "I will not go into those issues now. I tell you this much that I am ready to face anything."

Govt reverses order on chief engineers, DPAR to handle service issues

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru:

CHIEF engineers in Karnataka can breathe easy. The Karnataka government on Monday ordered that its order of December 2021 on chief engineers and departmental matters concerning promotions, transfer and inquiry, be struck down and the pre-December 2021 order be brought back. According to this, the Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR) will look after all departmental matters.

Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) additional chief secretary L K Atheeq signed the government circular after considerable deliberations on Monday.

The order in question had given powers of promotion, transfer and inquiry to the respective departments, like RDPR, PWD and water resources, which had led to complaints and grievances by chief engineers. After a string of challenges, the state government ordered that the system be reverted to that which existed in the pre-2021 period. A reliable source said this has been in effect in Karnataka since 1978, and DPAR looked after all service matters, including promotion of superintendent engineer to chief engineer, and chief engineer to engineer-in-chief and other important service issues.

On reverting to the system of 1978, experts said there were very few engineers back then, but now there are 72 chief engineer and 10 engineer-in-chief posts. Promotions based on seniority are acceptable but when other yardsticks are applied, there is a lot of heartburn, they said.

Last year, in a surprising move that led to much confusion, the DPAR issued a circular transferring service particulars, including the promotion of the chief engineer and engineer-in-chief from DPAR to the department concerned. Files of Lokayukta, CBI, Enforcement Directorate and Income Tax cases, which were earlier dealt with by DPAR, were also transferred to the respective departments.

Farmer spends Rs 1.5 lakh of hard-earned money to relay road

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Tumakuru

IN an extraordinary gesture, a farmer sold off the copra produce from his farm and used the money to lay a road across a 400 metre stretch and filled potholes on a road in Hagalavadi hobli of Gubbi taluk in Tumakuru district.

The farmer, Arehalli Nanjegowda Nataraju (53), a graduate and a former Gram Panchayat member spent Rs 1.5 lakh from his hard earned money for the work. The relaying of the road was hanging fire since two decades as no elected representative came forward to get it done. In fact, the farmer decided to take up the work after a Revenue Department peon Narayanappa (54) died on the road in a head-on collision between two motorcyles when both bikers were trying to negotiate a pothole on Shivanehalli Road.

Nataraju, who has now become a local hero, is now being encouraged by the residents, cutting across communities, to be promoted to the next level to either the Taluk Panchayat (TP) or Zilla Panchayat(ZP). They have started lobbying for him with the JDS, the party to which he belongs, to give him a ticket to contest the polls.

"Local MP G S Basavaraju who hails from Shivanehalli village and local MLA S R Srinivas ignored our demands to fix the road when we brought the matter to their notice several times", rued S Shadakshari, a resident.

Interestingly, when the GP results were announced during December 2020, Nataraju lost to his rival Ajay by one vote. "I moved the Gubbi civil court that gave its judgment in Sept 2022 in my favour as the concerned returning officer had counted some 20 to 25 invalid votes in Ajay's favour. So, now that am I elected to the GP, I am trying to keep up the promises I made during the elections and will continue to serve the people of the village", he told TNIE.

"Nataraju's contribution is commendable. He has become a role model for us", said former GP member Nagaraju of Madenahalli village in the taluk.

11K bridegrooms for 250 brides

ENS @Bengaluru

A matrimonial mela of the Vokkaliga community threw up a startling fact about the woes of the community's men, mostly hailing from farming families — that of not having enough brides. A whopping 11,750 prospective bridegrooms turned up for the event as against just 250 brides that led to chaos. There was participation from across the state, especially from the Old Mysuru region, which created a traffic jam for hours near the venue.

The mela was organised at the Adi Chunchanagiri Mutt in Nagamangala taluk of Mandya on Sunday. Each groom paid Rs 100 each to register for the fair and almost all of them came to the venue with some coming along with their parents.

The organisers were left scrambling to accommodate such a huge turnout resulting in the 'Vokkaliga Vadhu Vara Samavesha' getting cancelled eventually.

Moral win for Guv as Kerala HC junks VC appointment

Quashes it over violation of UGC norms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kochi

THE Kerala High Court on Monday set aside the appointment of K Riji John as the vice-chancellor of Kerala University of Fisheries and Ocean Studies (Kufos) over violation of University Grants Commission (UGC) norms.

Riji John was among the VCs who were asked to quit by Kerala Governor and Chancellor Arif Mohammed Khan following last month's Supreme Court verdict that nullified the appointment of the APJ Abdul Kalam Technological University VC on the same ground. The High Court order, coming just weeks after the SC verdict, has also dealt a fresh blow to the Kerala government, which has locked horns with Khan over the appointment of VCs.

In its order, the HC asked the chancellor to constitute at the earliest a search-cum-selection committee to recommend a panel of names, in accordance with UGC regulations, for the Kufos VC post.

"We have no hesitation to hold that the selection of Dr K Riji John as Kufos VC overlooking UGC Regulations, 2018, cannot be sustained under law. We are also of the view that the search-cum-selection committee constituted is also in violation of the regulations," an HC division bench said.

KK Vijayan, who had been in the fray for the Kufos VC post, and others had moved the HC challenging Riji's appointment. They argued that as per UGC Regulations, eminent persons from the higher education sector should be in search committee. However, the committee (that selected Riji) did not have members having the qualifications prescribed by UGC. Moreover, the committee suggested only Riji's name to the chancellor for appointment instead of a panel of three names as mandated, they said, adding that the chancellor had later notified his appointment.

Buy land for Kannada Bhavan: Sawant to Kannadigas in Goa

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

WHILE Kannadigas residing in Goa have been demanding a piece of land to construct 'Kannada Bhavan' there, Goa Chief Minister Pramod Sawant on Monday said that they should buy the required land on their own instead of requesting his government for land.

Sawant's statement has upset Kannada leaders in both Goa and Karnataka as several of them from the coastal state had assured Kannadigas in Goa on several occasions in the past of helping them get land allotted by Goa government for Kannada Bhavan.

Speaking at a cultural conference organised by Akhil Goa Kannada Sangha in Bicholim, Goa, on Sunday, Sawant said that his Karnataka counterpart Basavaraj Bommai talks to him on several issues related to Kannadigas in Goa. Bommai wants a Kannada Bhavan in Goa but there is shortage of land for this purpose. He said, "Kanandigas could construct a Kananda Bhavan in Goa by purchasing land on their own."

According to sources, senior BJP leader C T Ravi had assured Kannadigas in Goa that the Goa government would allot a suitable land for setting up of a Kannada Bhavan but measures were not taken to do so. Earlier, the Karnataka government had written to Sawant demanding the release of 1-2 acres for Kannada Bhavan in Goa. Kannadigas residing in Goa were demanding a Bhavan for almost four decades, sources said.

Bommai had also set aside Rs 10 crore in the state budget for Kannada Bhavan in Goa.

According to working president of Akhil Bharatiya Goa Kannada Sangh, Siddanna Meti, Sawant had stated in a programme earlier that his government would allot a suitable land for Kannada Bhavan in Goa and now has backtracked. "CT Ravi had told prior to the Goa Assembly election that he would get land allotted for Bhavan in Goa. And now he asks whether he has a magic wand when he was asked about his assurance," alleged Meti.

Kannada leaders in Goa hit out at politicians of Karnataka for not taking the issue seriously and said the issue was being politicised. They demanded that the Karnataka government hold talks with the Goa government and get the land allotted.

Now fly direct to Delhi from Hubballi

PEOPLE from Dharwad and neighbouring districts can now fly directly to Delhi with IndiGo commencing its direct flight service between Hubballi and the National Capital on Monday. Union Minister for Civil Aviation Jyotiraditya Scindia and Union Minister Pralhad Joshi flagged off the maiden flight virtually from New Delhi and Hubballi, respectively.

As the Airbus A320 carrying 179 passengers landed at Hubballi Airport, it was welcomed with a water canon salute. According to the schedule, Flight No 6E 5624 will depart from Delhi at 10 am and reach Hubballi at 12.45 pm. Later, Flight No 6E 5625 will fly from Hubballi at 1.15 pm and land in Delhi at 3.45 pm.

This flight will not just help people of Dharwad district, but also has come as a boon for residents of north and central Karnataka regions.

Star Air already has a service to Hindon (Uttar Pradesh), which is near 40 km from Delhi Airport. However, it is a cumbersome exercise to travel to this airport from Delhi, particularly during peak hours.

As the Airbus took off from Hubballi carrying 151 passengers, Union Minister Pralhad Joshi was one among them.

Another speciality of this service was the announcement made by First Officer Akshay Patil in Kannada. Hailing from Bailhongal in Belagavi district, Patil addressed the passengers in Kannada in north Karnataka dialect. A video of the announcement even went viral on social media.

Nalini meets husband, 3 other convicts at spl camp

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Tiruchy

NALINI Sriharan, one of the six convicts in the Rajiv Gandhi murder case released on Saturday evening, on Monday visited her husband, Murugan - another convict - lodged at the Tiruchy special camp. Following a Supreme Court order, Murugan and three others were moved to the special camp from prison on November 12.

Nalini told mediapersons that she was confident of the Union and the State government expediting the process to release the four of them from the camp. "Tiruchy Collector M Pradeep Kumar asked me to submit a formal petition for their release and informed me that other procedures were under way," Nalini said.

Nalini conveyed her hopes of reuniting with her daughter in London. "Murugan and I want to spend the rest of our lives with her," she said. On opposition from the Congress over their release, Nalini said her family supported the party. "My family mourned for three days after the assassination of Indira and Rajiv Gandhi," she said.

HC: TN govt to pay for illegal detention orders

JEGADEESWARI PANDIAN @ Madurai

TO end the "callous" manner in which detention orders are passed in TN, the Madurai Bench of the Madras High Court decided on Monday that a cost would be imposed on the State whenever a detention is found to be illegal.

Passing the order on two habeas corpus petitions (HCPs), a bench of justices MS Ramesh and N Anand Venkatesh said the cases made them question the way they deal with preventive detention cases. They noted that scores of HCPs are filed daily, challenging orders of detention passed under the TN Prevention of Dangerous Activities of Bootleggers, Cyber law offenders, Drug offenders, Forest-offenders, Goondas, Immoral Traffic Offenders, Sand offenders, Sexual-offenders, Slum-grabbers and Video Pirates Act, 1982 (Act 14 of 1982).

"These petitions are admitted and taken up after about four to six months, owing to the backlog of cases, and are inevitably allowed directing the release of the detenues," the judges added. Referring to HCPs challenging 'Goondas' detention, the judges said detention orders had to be quashed in 86% of the 517 cases disposed of by the Madurai Bench this year, and the rest were closed as they had become infructuous. "There is not a single case under the Goondas Act in the current year before the Madurai Bench where the order of detention has been upheld," the judges said.

KCR to hold crucial meet today

Hyderabad: Telangana CM K Chandrasekhar Rao is preparing to reveal his plans on taking BJP going forward at the joint meeting of TRS Legislative, Parliamentary and Executive Committee members on Tuesday. According to sources, he is likely to explain how BJP tried to derail his government by attempting to trigger defection of 4 TRS MLAs. ENS

MILK PRICE HIKE DECISION ON HOLD TILL NOVEMBER 20

"THE order was issued after discussions with senior leaders in the ruling party. The Gujarat model was also being followed where the prices were hiked much before the elections were announced so that there is no linking or debate," sources said.

A senior KMF official said, "We had issued the order as the CM is not on the Board. In 2011 too, when the Kerala Milk Federation had hiked the prices, the government had asked it put it on hold. The Kerala Milk Federation, however, challenged the government's intervention in court, where the court ruled that the Federation can go ahead with its decision.

We were confident of convincing the CM at the November 20 meeting. At present, we could still go ahead with the KMF order, as there is no written communication from the CM. However, it has been decided to put the order on hold till November 20."

There are 26 lakh farmers in Karnataka who supply milk through 15 unions. The KMF on an average procures 79 to 80 lakh litres a day. At present, the procurement has come down to 76 lakh litres a day due to the

MILK PRICES IN KERALA TO INCREASE

T'PURAM: Milk is set to get dearer in the state with Kerala Cooperative Milk Marketing Federation (Milma) has recommended a hike of ₹6 to ₹8 per litre in view of the steep rise in input cost. Confirming a rise in milk price, Dairy Development Minister J Chinchu Rani said the government will take a call on the rate of hike after consultations with Milma on Tuesday. "We have no options. We need to increase the price of milk," she said. Earlier, Chinchu said a hike of ₹5 per litre is likely.

Actor Krishna suffers cardiac arrest, hospitalised

ENS @ Hyderabad

TELUGU film actor G Krishna was admitted to Continental Hospital, Gachibowli, in the wee hours of Monday following a cardiac arrest. He was put on ventilator support and his condition is reportedly critical.

"Krishna was brought to the hospital at 1:15 am in an unconscious state due to a cardiac arrest. The doctors resuscitated him within 20 minutes of performing CPR. He is battling multi-organ dysfunction and has been put on dialysis due to kidney infection. He was shifted to the Intensive Care Unit (ICU) and was put on ventilator support for better treatment. His condition remains extremely critical and we cannot say anything till the next 24-48 hours," said Dr Guru N Reddy, Chairman and Managing Director of Continental Hospitals.

Krishna's first wife Ghattamaneni Indira Devi passed away in September this year due to prolonged illness, while his other wife and actor-filmmaker Vijaya Nirmala, too, passed away in 2019. The 79-year-old actor had recently recovered from Covid-19.

Krishna, who has four children, including actor Mahesh Babu, has acted in over 350 films. He is also the recipient of Padma Bhushan (2009) and an honorary doctorate from Andhra University.

Joida — K'taka's new birdwatching destination

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi

WITH improved sightings of endemic bird fauna of Western Ghats, Joida taluk is now becoming the most sought-after birding destination in the State. Bird photographers and enthusiasts from Maharashtra, Kerala, Goa and Andhra Pradesh are thronging to Joida taluk to get a glimpse of rich avifauna that is abundant here.

With several ficus and other wild trees bearing fruits, hornbills can be seen flying around these trees, attracting several photographers. Many birding groups from Pune and Hyderabad have been camping in Joida taluk regularly.

The bird experts give credit to the forest department that has been planting fruit-bearing trees for several years and also the local wildlife activists who have been creating awareness among local villagers against causing harm to birds, especially large hornbills.

Malabar Pied Hornbill

Malabar Grey Hornbill

Rajani Rao, a noted birdwatching guide from Dandeli says the bird photographers throng to Dandeli all along the year. "The JLR property in Old Magazine House in Ganeshgudi and Old Timber Depot in Dandeli have always been the most preferred destinations for birdwatching. However, in the last few years, the bird count has increased in newer spots in Joida taluk, including forest paths and lake beds," she said.

"Barring monsoon, the rest the year is birding season. Hornbills, trogons, frogmouths and Indian pitta are the most preferred birds to be photographed in this region. Joida taluk has become a birding paradise from last few years with increased awareness regarding these winged beauties," explained Narasimha Champkhant, owner of Kadumane properties.

Vikram Sogi, a homestay owner felt that it is important for homestays to encourage their guests to learn about birdwatching and the importance of birds in jungles. "Homestays and resorts operating in an eco-friendly manner are gaining popularity via birding activities. There are many operators in Dandeli who are bending rules, which is against nature and such attempts should not be encouraged. Too much commercialisation is not good for long-term eco tourism," he said.

Bandipur best tiger reserve in K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

BANDIPUR Tiger Reserve has scored again, this time getting top marks in Management Effectiveness Evaluation (MEE) for tiger reserves in India. The evaluation was done by National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA) and Wildlife Institute of India (WII), an autonomous institute of Ministry of Environment Forest and Climate Change.

Assessment is taken up once every four years by a team of experts from NTCA and WII, which evaluate the management of the tiger reserve, community participation, tourism, protection, habitat management, tiger population, rescue, medical facilities, tribal settlement and other such aspects.

Of the tiger population of 524 in Karnataka, as per a 2018 census, Bandipur Tiger Reserve alone has 173 tigers, while Nagarahole Tiger Reserve has 164. A four-member expert team visited Bandipur and conducted the assessment.

Of the 524 tigers in Karnataka, as per a 2018 census, Bandipur Tiger Reserve alone has 173 big cats | EXPRESS

Bandipur TR received a score of 95.5%, the highest in the state.

"A team of scientists, retired IFS officers and wildlife experts conduct an investigation every four years and give scores based on management of the tiger reserve. A team of experts had visited Bandipur Tiger Reserve a month back and stayed for four days to conduct the survey," Bandipur Tiger Reserve director P Ramesh Kumar said.

"Other tiger reserves in the country have scored 92% to 94%. Based on our score, we hope Bandipur will be declared first or second in the country. The achievement was possible as the department took up development activities in the reserve," he said.

With 64 parameters to be fulfilled to achieve top position on the list of tiger reserves in the country, Ramesh Kumar said Bandipur took up conservation and protection activities.

ODISHA'S HEALTH INFRASTRUCTURE NEEDS REVIEW

The Orissa High Court's observations in the Martha Sabar death compensation case must send the Odisha government into a soul-searching. What happened with the tribal woman from Gajapati district seven years ago shook the HC bench comprising Chief Justice Dr S Muralidhar and Justice M S Raman. It was amply evident in the verdict: "It shocks the judicial conscience that a poor tribal woman had been carrying a dead foetus for a week before her death with not one person in the healthcare system being able to provide her the needed care and treatment and which neglect resulted in her inevitable death."

For the record, a nine-month pregnant Martha Sabar approached a primary health centre with chest and abdominal pain complaints on March 18, 2015. With the medical officer and ANM absent, she went home without any basic treatment or prescription. The woman who had previously lost her first child during an institutional delivery returned to the district headquarters hospitals six days later with complications relating to non-movement of the foetus. As the report of the enquiry committee appointed by the HC suggests, a gasping Martha was not provided even oxygen support, let alone any intensive care.

On March 25, 2015, she delivered a dead child without a doctor in the labour room. Hours later, the tribal woman perished. Martha Sabar and her family members' heartrending ordeal must not recur in a state where the maternal mortality rate (MMR) continues to be a bane. The sample registration system data puts MMR in Odisha at 136 per one lakh live births for 2017–19. Though the state has shown improvement, it lags behind Bihar, Punjab, UP and Rajasthan in terms of performance. Poor rural healthcare infrastructure, gaping holes in medical and paramedic staff positioning, and access to diagnostics remain major challenges despite many schemes and a surge in the state's health budget. The Rural Health Statistics 2021 reveals that doctor vacancies in PHCs stand close to 31%. As the HC noted in the Martha Sabar case: "There has been a clear violation of the fundamental right to health of the deceased, which constitutes an integral part of the right to life guaranteed in Article 21 of the Constitution of India." While the HC has laid down a clear action plan for the state to follow, such systemic deficits must be addressed immediately.

TIME FOR INDIAN CRICKET TO EVOLVE

The signs were ominous even before India travelled to Australia. Conditions this time of the year favour bowlers. The grounds are larger Down Under, some of the pitches are juicy, and facing some of the faster bowlers would be daunting. With their fabled batting, India can score big.

After looking at the conditions, India decided to adopt a conservative approach, saving wickets and launching in the last ten overs. On paper, India has a very strong batting order. Rohit Sharma, the designated powerplay basher, K L Rahul, and Virat Kohli can set the game up for Suryakumar Yadav and Hardik Pandya to launch an all-out attack. However, despite cautious starts, barring Kohli, the other batters did not hold their end of the bargain. Frequently, they had to rely on a big finish to reach par scores. This strategy nearly came unstuck against Pakistan and Bangladesh, while South Africa and England exposed the limitations. If it were not for Kohli's innings against Pakistan, India might not have even reached the semi-finals. Despite moments of brilliance from Suryakumar, Arshdeep Singh and Pandya, by and large, this was a forgettable World Cup for India.

Without Jasprit Bumrah's new ball nous, the attack looked toothless at times. The team management, including head coach Rahul Dravid, seemed clueless about how to fit Rishabh Pant into the team. The selection was baffling too. For instance, when other team wrist spinners managed to buy wickets and contain, India did not play Yuzvendra Chahal at all. Pakistan's Shadab Khan and England's Adil Rashid were perfect examples.

It's time the selection committee gets bolder and sheds its emotional baggage. We have enough players to have two or maybe even three different teams, with two different coaches, for red-ball and white-ball cricket. Some of the big teams, like England, have already adopted it. One has to understand that T20 is a modern game. Here there's no scoring in the V. It's evolved into a 360-degree game with innovative shots the order of the day. There are enough players in the domestic circuit; we get to see them in the IPL. With the T20 World Cup in 2024, it's time to find the right combination. If ageing big names need to be excluded, so be it. In the end, one has to keep pace with the evolution.

QUICK TAKE

JOB QUOTAS FOR THIRD GENDER

Law mandates gender equality. The principle certainly needs iteration in Maharashtra. The state is yet to frame a reservation policy for transgender people, eight years after the Supreme Court recognised them as the third gender, and treated as socially and economically backward classes for jobs and education quotas. Irritated by the state's delay, the Maharashtra Administrative Tribunal told the government to reserve just one sub-inspector's post for transgender people. The community can do without such indifference, from the government and tokenism, of the tribunal. Few states are proactive on transgender quotas. The rest, including Maharashtra, cannot drag their feet forever.

If Rajiv Gandhi had been assassinated today, would the probe have been limited to appointing a Special Investigation Team and a pro forma mandatory hunt for the killers in the state of Tamil Nadu when the complicity of the Tamil Tigers became evident within hours of the assassination of India's youngest prime minister?

The evidence? Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam's leader Prabhakaran had wanted every detail of the assassination recorded on camera. And while the young photographer Haribabu, tasked with the job—without exactly knowing whom he was doing it for—died in the blast at Sriperumbudur when the human bomb, Dhanu, self detonated right next to him, his camera was found undamaged on his blood-soaked chest by the sharp-eyed R K Raghavan, the IG of police in charge of the chaotic melee at the Sriperumbudur ground, within hours of the actual blast.

When examined, the chilling image of a huge human fireball, the last picture, told its own story. The ten final frames were a photographic record, not just of the moments leading up to the carnage on the night of May 21, 1991, but of the men and women who made it happen—Dhanu, the female suicide bomber, and her handler Nalini Sriharan, who along with six others and a seventh, Perarivalan, were freed from jail, 31 years after they executed LTTE leader Prabhakaran's plans to eliminate the one man they saw as standing in their way—Rajiv Gandhi, the primary threat to Prabhakaran's dream of founding an independent Tamil nation that would have, ominously for India, straddled both countries.

That film roll was the most conclusive piece of evidence that nailed Prabhakaran's role in the assassination, of the 26 who were sentenced to death by a trial court, including Perarivalan, the belt bomb maker, Sriharan, a close Sivarasan associate and the Indian woman he eventually married—Nalini.

Not only was Nalini—who plays the innocent with rare aplomb—editing the LTTE manifesto and flyers printed in her family's printing press, but she was also responsible for Dhanu and Subha during a dummy run of the assassination when V P Singh addressed a gathering at Marina Beach on May 12.

Looking back, the elimination of the leader of India's most powerful party at the time posed a grave threat to national security, attempting as it did to change the course of electoral history. Many ask why

The 10 final frames were a photographic record, not just of the moments before the carnage on the night of May 21, 1991, but of the men and women who made it happen

RAJIV'S ASSASSINS: 'INNOCENT' TIGERS GET A FREE PASS

NEENA GOPAL

Foreign policy analyst and author

SOUMYADIP SINHA

the government of the day did not undertake a Pulwama, a punitive cross-border attack on the Tamil Tiger hide-outs in northern Sri Lanka that Indian Air Force pilots were long familiar with.

Instead, India sent a team of investigators to liaise with the rabidly anti-Indian and anti-Rajiv Sri Lankan government politely—which conclusively identified Sivarasan, the 'One-eyed Jack' and others in the hit team.

It was not beyond India's ambit. A key R&AW operative confided how he kept a line open to Prabhakaran by providing him with a regular supply of Tamil movies that the LTTE chief loved to watch at night.

Air Chief Marshal Fali Homi Major (retd) recounted to me how easy it would have been to eliminate the betrayer. And how close they came. Deployed with the Indian Peace Keeping Forces, helicopters at the ready, it was a call from the then Air Chief's aide that saw his team abort the plan at the very last minute.

The massive intelligence failure it marked, even though all signs that the LTTE was set to bite the hand that feeds were there for all to see has never been fully addressed. Then Prime Minister Chandrasekhar convened a meeting the morning after the assassination. But no heads rolled. Not his own, for sure. And despite all the finger-pointing at the LTTE by those present, the Research & Analysis Wing chief G S Bajpai was equally sanguine over Prabhakaran's role, and of R&AW mole, Col Kittu aka Sathasivan Krishnakumar, who had blindsided them.

An emotional Prabhakaran's handler, R&AW senior operative Chandrasekharan would tell me, years later, wiping the tears from his eyes, of how he could never forgive himself for not being able to see through Prabhakaran's long game.

The Jain Commission and the Justice Verma Commission too pulled up the Centre, the TN police and the Congress. But no one was put on the mat for reducing Rajiv Gandhi's security when his own security staff shared chilling details of previous failed attempts, one in Delhi, the other in Stockholm.

Far more of concern is the misplaced sympathy that the assassins and 'Eelam' continue to evoke, even after the LTTE was decimated by the Sri Lankan government, and the open support to the separatist cause by prominent politicians, for electoral gain.

On the night of May 20, 1991, as I put through one frantic call after another to the Congress' election in charge Margaret Alva to track Rajiv Gandhi's poll campaign, no one in Delhi had a clue about where he was headed, except to say that his plane had developed engine trouble and was probably stuck in Visakhapatnam. It was only when I arrived at Vazhapadi Ramamurthy's door that the Tamil Nadu Congress Committee chief let on that Rajiv was coming to Sriperumbudur to campaign for his mother Indira Gandhi's friend Margatham Chandrasekhar. But that wasn't all he said. Without any prompting, he asked me to be careful, saying he had learnt from the grapevine that there would be trouble the next day!

Vazhapadi was the first—and the only—person to talk, a full 24 hours before the assassination, of the dangers posed by the Sri Lankan Tamils who were based in sizeable numbers in the city. His warning would make me the first reporter to point fingers at the involvement of the LTTE. Accusations were reinforced by a police officer who came to my help in the mad crush moments after the bomb went off, leaving us covered with the blood and gore of the dead who had fallen to the bomber. All I could say, repeatedly, as Congress leaders tried to lift the crumpled form of Rajiv Gandhi lying face down just a few feet away, was, "who could have done this". To which this unnamed officer said chillingly: "the Tigers, the Tigers."

INDIA'S TELECOM BILL MYSTERY

The deadline has ended for public comments on the draft Indian Telecommunication Bill, 2022—a legislative throwback to the pre-liberalisation Licence Raj. The Industries (Development and Regulation) Act, 1951 allowed the Centre to appropriate industries. Seven decades later, this bill seeks to give it the same power over telecom—and free speech.

Critically erudite sheaves have already been written on it. But my focus is on the peculiar (but inescapably purposeful) imprecision of the wording of the draft—a definitional and phrasal looseness that allows those who penned this draft to interpret, intermediate, and implement its prescriptions in ways that can fettle Freedom of Expression where it stands.

The Union Ministry of Communications prepared the bill to replace legislations that govern telecommunication in India, including the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, the Wireless Telegraphy Act, 1933 and the Telegraph Wires (Unlawful Possession) Act, 1950. It will repeal them until new rules are formulated and will also amend certain provisions of the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India Act, 1997. The bill's scope being as toilsome as it is formidable, the government has used a shortcut: it has reintroduced into the bill many of the existing terminologies of the Indian Telegraph Act.

The bill seeks certain terminological modernity by replacing 'telegraph' with 'telecommunication' (the world's last telegram was sent by the BSNL in 2013), but undoes itself by overlapping the jurisdictions of the terms 'telecommunication services' and 'telecommunication networks'.

Telecommunication networks use spectrum; telecommunication services, not always. But, while talking about spectrum, the draft has included in telecom services a raft of services that do not use spectrum. Telcos use spectrum; telecasters, such as OTTs, for instance, don't. It is possible to auction spectrum; it isn't possible to auction telecast rights.

This drafting inexactitude infects the entire bill, leaving it indefensible against both industry and civil-rights criticism and capable of freewheeling, self-serving interpretative actionalising by the government.

For example, the Telecom Services (Public Emergency or Public Safety) Rules, 2017, allows "time-bound, limited" internet shutdowns. (Of course, this guideline is easily elasticated using political will: the longest downtime in Jammu & Kashmir was 552 days, or nearly a year and a half) The telecom bill, however, doesn't even make a passing bow in the direction of these words.

From January 2012 to June 2022, there have been 683 internet shutdowns in India (the most numerous in the world); 66 of them have been in 2022—so far. (In 2014, when the BJP first took power at the Centre, there were six; in 2015, 14; in 2021, 106.)

KAJAL BASU

Veteran journalist

According to the draft bill, the telecommunication services that the government intends to both surveil and licence include "broadcasting services, electronic mail, voice mail, voice, video and data communication services, audiotex services, videotex services, fixed and mobile services, internet and broadband services, satellite-based communication services, in-flight and maritime connectivity services, interpersonal communications services, machine to machine communication services, over-the-top (OTT) communication services, which is made available to users by telecommunication". In other words, the bill ensures the monitoring of every word written or spoken, every video uploaded, watched, or exchanged (no matter that the sender might have timed them to disappear after a set passage of time) in WhatsApp/Telegram/Signal/FB, Twitter Direct Messages, Facebook Messenger, Clubhouse, Zoom calls, webinars, web conferences, chatrooms, podcasts, Gmail and Yahoo!, VPNs, VoIP, services that transmit content (such as software updates) to machines, communications via undersea cables, ham radio, walkie-talkies, in-flight phone calls and internet access, AI research, laptops, tablets, phones and, potentially, even TV feedback.

This bid for all-encompassing supersurveillance has so far been unheard of anywhere in the world, even in dictatorships

Everything in the digital form said or written or seen or heard or exchanged, intentionally or inadvertently. The digital entities will be mandated to confirm user identities and keep granular logs.

This bid for all-encompassing supersurveillance has so far been unheard of anywhere in the world—even in dictatorships. "Cartoonishly evil", indeed, as Anupam Guha, a Twitter user who highlighted the draft bill's definitional reconditeness, called it. Perhaps that is the draft bill's intent because equivocality in a law leaves it wide open to deliberate allegorisation.

The Department of Telecommunication and Ministry of Home Affairs had informed the 2021 Standing Committee on Communications and Information Technology that "public emergency" and "public safety" were the only grounds for which the internet could be suspended. These terms remain undefined in the draft telecom bill, in particular, and the law, in general, and no objective parameters have even been codified. They can mean whatever the ruling dispensation wants them to mean and can be distorted and retreaded case-by-case.

What is the possibility of the establishment wielding the proposed telecom law like a giant, all-felling hammer? Going by precedent, very high. Half the internet shutdowns in the country were implemented after 2017—the year that the Temporary Suspension of Telecom Services (Public Emergency or Public Safety) Rules, 2017, superseded Section 144 of the CrPC.

There is a possibility (however faint, because this mesomorphic government is not given to feinting) that the vast dictatorial scope of this proposed law has been cleverly designed for recalibration after downsampling—that is, not for continuous, wall-to-wall monitoring (ConMon) or real-time BigData-collation (which are tasks so colossal as to be nearly infeasible), but for sly data backdooring as and when found politically expedient. It is, therefore, prudent to publicly supervise an impending catchall law that has an infinitely expandable perimeter. The government's assurance that this will be a "light touch regulation" cannot be taken at face value, given that no government dilutes a panoptical law—ever.

Or else we could end up with the government riding shotgun, up close and personal, on every single thing we express or seek to—personal, professional, creative, critical, analytical, hagiographical, poetic, prosaic. A law conceived for political hyperinterpretation and (mis)use.

'J&K to be paradise of peace & prosperity soon'

Union minister Jitendra Singh says developing Union Territory faces key challenge from infiltration

MORE than three years after the Centre read down the provisions of Article 370 giving special status to Jammu and Kashmir, the only real challenge for the government is infiltration from across the border, and not normalisation of peace in the Kashmir Valley, which the government believes has already set in with a push now being given to investment and development of the state. That's what Dr Jitendra Singh, who belongs to the state and holds various important portfolios as a senior minister in the Modi cabinet, believes.

Verbatim

Dr Singh heads departments such as Science and Technology (independent charge), Earth Science, PMO, Department of Space and Atomic Science and Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions. In an interview to Rajesh Kumar Thakur, the Minister says the objective of the government is to make J&K 'samridhi aur shanti ka swarg' (a paradise of prosperity and peace).
Excerpts:

How do you see J&K now moving ahead?
For the first time, Valley is smiling with sprouts of hope all around. The people have begun seeing a wider horizon of prosperity coming closer to them after the removal of Article 370 by the Modi government. The administration has much better coordination with the public and opportunities have opened up for the youth.

The start-up initiative has got a wider momentum across the Valley which is on its way to becoming the hub of agricultural start-ups. J&K is well within the timeframe of becoming the 'samridhi aur shanti ka swarg' (paradise of peace and prosperity) under Modi model of governance.

What are the key challenges being faced in J&K? Will the UT acquire the status of statehood?
The only challenge is infiltration being pushed from across the border. It has to be firmly checked to bring normalcy and peace. The common people in J&K want to be a part of Modi's growth journey. The Kashmiri youth have high aspirations. They have lived enough behind walls of fear. Cross-border infiltration is substantially checked. As for statehood or elections, the ECI will decide the schedule taking into account factors such as the delimitation of constituencies and security.

How do you view the outcome of recently-organized 'Special Swachhata Campaign 2.0' (from Oct 2 to Oct 30)? It was monitored by the Science & Technology Ministry across the country.
The campaign has set an example as to how we can generate revenue and have positive behavioral changes in offices. Similar campaigns should be initiated every year to inculcate a sense of cleanliness. The campaign was a brainchild of PM Modi and has helped us not only in clearing spaces and disposing of files, but also made us innovative. This campaign has generated revenue of more than ₹350 crore. It helped us to create more than 88 lakh sq ft across all departments and ministries.

What is your prediction about Himachal Pradesh and Gujarat elections?
The opposition in Himachal Pradesh has almost vanished because it has lost the people's trust. In both states, the Congress is not seen in a position where it can match the BJP in terms of people's trust, especially under the overall leadership of PM Modi. Many senior office-bearers of the Congress have joined the BJP.

Will Modi magic work again in Gujarat?
The Modi magic prevails across the country. He is an asset not only for the BJP but also for the entire nation. That is why opposition parties are hesitant in speaking against him because people do not appreciate and tolerate it.

The common people in J&K want to be a part of Modi's growth journey. The Kashmiri youth have high aspirations. They have lived enough behind walls of fear
Jitendra Singh, Union minister

Has the entry of AAP in Gujarat made the polls tougher for BJP?
AAP is trying to fill some 'leftover space' of the Congress in state politics. The BJP is a well-tested and trusted party. AAP has failed to gauge the political sentiment of Gujarat voters. Besides, the party has exposed itself in Delhi.

Do you see the Opposition getting polarized for the 2024 LS elections to take on PM Modi?
The Opposition has not been able to understand the wider impact of 'Modi Model of Governance and Politics (MMGP)'. The popularity of Modi and his performance are getting global recognition. This model has dented the 'family-oriented' and 'person-oriented' politics in the country. These parties are clashing with one another in the dark for survival.

The government says it has a shortage of IAS officers...
The government has increased the intake of IAS officers to 180 per year through UPSC recruitment following the recommendation of a parliamentary standing committee. The sanctioned strength is 6,746 IAS officers of which 4,682 posts are included for officers who are promoted through state civil services. At present, India has a working strength of 5,231 IAS officers.

PM's G20 focus to be growth revival

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

EXTENSIVE discussions on crucial global challenges, including reviving growth, ensuring food and energy security and addressing issues related to health and digital transformation will form the thrust of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's engagements with G20 leaders at Bali, Indonesia.

Modi said in a statement ahead of his visit to the Indonesian resort city, where the two-day G20 leaders' summit will begin on May 15, that he will not only highlight India's achievements but also its "unwavering commitment" to collectively address key global issues. Indonesian President Joko Widodo will hand over the G20 presidency to India at the summit's closing ceremony. India will officially assume the G20 presidency from December 1. In his pre-departure statement, Modi said that he would extend his "personal invitation to G20 members and other invitees to our G20 Summit next year".

India is currently part of the G20 Troika (current, previous and incoming G20 presidencies) comprising Indonesia, Italy and India.

While the Bali summit is expected to discuss pressing global challenges, including the implications of the Ukraine-Russia conflict, and food and energy security issues, Modi promised that India's G20 presidency will be grounded in the 'Vasudaiva Kutumbakam' or 'One Earth, One Family, One Future' theme "which underlines the message of equitable growth and shared future for all".

Prime Minister Narendra Modi reaches Bali to attend the G20 Summit | PTI

The summit is set to be attended by Chinese President Xi Jinping, US President Joe Biden, British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak and French President Emmanuel Macron among others. The G20 is an influential bloc for global economic cooperation as it represents around 85 percent of the global GDP, over 75 per cent of the global trade, and about two-thirds of the world population.

Modi, who unveiled the logo, theme and website on India's G20 presidency, said he will meet on the sidelines of the summit leaders of several other participating countries and "review the progress in India's bilateral relations with them"..

'Liquor scam': Bizman, AAP's media strategist in 5-day ED custody

AMIT MUKHERJEE @ New Delhi

THE ED has secured 5-day custodial remand to quiz Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) communication overseer Vijay Nair and businessman Abhishek Boinpally in connection with its ongoing money-laundering probe connected with the Delhi Excise policy that was scrapped following corruption allegations, official sources said on Monday.

The two were in judicial custody and lodged in jail here after the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) arrested them in the same case to investigate the corruption charges. The two were granted bail by the CBI court as the ED sought to arrest them.

The ED moved an application after arresting them in the PMLA court here seeking their custody to investigate the matter further. ED Counsel Naveen Matta submitted before the court that the accused would be confronted with voluminous documents that have been seized in about 169 raids and would try to trace the route of the kickbacks from the Delhi Excise scam which were allegedly laundered.

According to ED sources, the two remanded accused would also be confronted with the other accused — P Sarath C Reddy and Binoy Babu — arrested by the agency last week. All accused will be questioned in the presence of each other, the sources added.

Order reserved on 'approver' Arora

NEW DELHI: A special court on Monday reserved its order after Dinesh Arora, allegedly a close aide of Delhi Deputy CM Manish Sisodia, sought the court's approval to become an approver and make a disclosure statement in the Delhi Excise policy scam. Special Judge M K Nagpal reserved the order on the plea made by Arora seeking pardon for his alleged involvement in the case and becoming an approver.

SC asks Centre to reply on Places of Worship Act in Jan

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

ACCEDING to the Centre's request of granting more time to file a comprehensive affidavit, the Supreme Court on Monday posted the pleas challenging constitutionality of provisions of Places of Worship Act, 1991, a parliamentary law that protects the identity and character of religious places as on August 15, 1947 for the first week of January, 2023.

The provisions of the act as per section 5 however do not apply to the place or place of worship commonly known as Ram Janma Bhumi-Babri Masjid situated in Ayodhya and also to any pleas suit, appeal or other proceeding related to the place or place of worship.

Urging the bench of CJI DY Chandrachud and Justice JB Pardiwala to grant more time, S-G Tushar Mehta submitted that the issue would need "greater consultation" at a particular level.

Against the backdrop of Places of Worship Act, 1991 excluding from its purview Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri Masjid dispute, Dr Subramanian Swamy sought for addition of two more temples of certain significance namely Kashi and Mathura to the section of exceptions using casus omissus.

EC asked to file reply on use of 'religion'
The Supreme Court on Monday directed the Election Commission of India to file its response in relation with a plea alleging misuse of religious names and symbols by political parties all across the country. The counsel appearing for the poll panel sought time from the apex court bench of Justices M R Shah and Hima Kohli to file a reply to the petition.

'Dist judiciary should be given due respect'
Speaking at felicitation function organised by SCBA, CJI DY Chandrachud said that we need to ensure that district judges are not subordinate but they belong to district judiciary. The judge also said, "We not only have to lay down the blocks of the infrastructure of judiciary but we also need to change our mindset on how we look at our district judiciary."

'Netaji b'day can't be declared holiday'
The SC junked plea seeking to declare Netaji Subash Chandra Bose's birthday anniversary 23rd January as National Holiday. "You've to ultimately bring case which falls within parameters of law & constitution. You can't make mockery of PIL," court said. A bench of CJI DY Chandrachud and Justice JB Pardiwala also said you should take jurisdiction of this court seriously you know.

SC to hear plea on electoral bond plan amendment

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday agreed to hear a plea challenging centre's notification of the electoral bond scheme which allows their sale for 15 extra days during the "year of general elections to the legislative assembly of States and Union territories with legislature".

Earlier, only an additional period of 30 days was allowed to be specified by the central government in the year of Lok Sabha elections. Urging the bench of CJI DY Chandrachud and Justice JB Pardiwala to list the matter urgently, senior advocate Anoop George Chaudhary told the court that the plea related to the recent electoral bonds and the same were being issued against the scheme.

Considering counsel's contention, the CJI said, "We'll list the matter and it'll come up."

The Ministry of Finance on November 7 issued a notification for amending the scheme to provide "an additional period of 15 days" for their sale "in the year of general elections to the Legislative Assembly of States and Union Territories with Legislature".

"An additional period of fifteen days shall be specified by the central government in the year of general elections to the legislative assembly of states and Union territories with the legislature," the gazette notification said.

SC bins ex-AAP leader's plea against 3 FIRs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

Former Aam Aadmi Party Councillor Tahir Hussain suffered a set back on Monday as the SC dismissed his plea seeking stay of criminal proceedings emanating from the three FIRs registered against him in connection with 2020 riots.

Noting that Hussain had filed plea challenging Delhi HC's interim ruling dated September 16, a bench of Justices Ajay Rastogi and CT Ravikumar in their order said, "We find no reason to interfere when matter is sub judice before HC."

The court also turned down Senior Advocate Maneka Guruswamy's request for directing the HC to consider Hussain's plea expeditiously.

Hussain's counsel had told the court that criminal law doesn't permit registration of subsequent FIR on the same offence.

1,212-km Metro train network gets green light

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

Amid growing traffic congestion across country's almost all metro cities, demand for having metro rail service has increased multiple times in more than two dozen of metro cities in the country in the past eight years.

In a bid to come true to the people's expectation on this mode of intercity metro rail mode of transportation, the Union government has started working with a comprehensive work plan to lay out the network in various cities.

According to an official figure, obtained by this newspaper, around 1,212 km of rail lines have already been approved so far in the country for running the metro trains, including the lines started before Delhi metro in 2014.

"The construction works are in progress on all the approved lines in various metro cities in different phases," claimed a concerned official.

Horror on steroid as man kills live-in partner, chops body into 35 pieces

UJWAL JALALI @ New Delhi

IN a gut-wrenching incident, a 27-year-old woman from Mumbai was allegedly strangled, her body chopped into 35 pieces and dumped at different locations across the national capital, the police revealed on Monday.

Accused Aaftab Amin Poonawala, 28, was in a live-in relationship with victim Shraddha Walkar.

The matter came to light after the girl's father Vikas Madan Walkar approached the Mumbai Police with a missing person complaint. "On November 8, the Mumbai Police contacted the Delhi Police regarding the disappearance of a girl. She had gone missing from the area of the Mehrauli police station," Additional DCP (south Delhi) Ankit Chauhan said.

Vikas told the Delhi Police that on November 14, his son was informed by his daughter's friend that she had no contact with Shraddha for the past two-and-a-half months and her mobile phone was switched off.

After scanning CCTV footage

of the nearby areas, the police detained Poonawala on Saturday. Initially, he claimed she had left him long ago and he was unaware of her whereabouts. However, upon sustained interrogation, he admitted he killed her after a quarrel over marriage. The idea of chopping up her body came from Dexter, an American crime TV series, he added.

"Poonawala disclosed that he and the deceased were in a live-in relationship since 2019. Both hail from Mumbai. They met each other through some dating app and even had frequent fights," the senior official said.

Since Shraddha's family was against her inter-faith relationship, she began living with him in Mumbai about three years ago before relocating to Delhi's Mehrauli. "They visited hill stations in March and April. Thereafter, they decided to stay in Delhi," the police said.

On May 18, Poonawala strangled her after an heated argument, chopped her body into 35 parts, wrapped them in plastic bags and preserved them in a new 300 litre refrigerator. The accused disposed of those body parts within the next 18 days at different locations of a forest area in the city, leaving home past midnight to do so.

Vikas was living separately with his mother and not his wife and daughter since 2016. Shraddha's mother passed away in January, 2020. "When her mother was alive, Shraddha told her several times that Poonawala used to beat her. Fifteen days after my wife's death, Shraddha told me the same thing over phone," Vikas said.

1995 batch IAS new Prasar Bharati CEO

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

Senior IAS officer Gaurav Dwivedi was appointed as the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of public broadcaster Prasar Bharati on Monday. He has earlier served as chief of MyGovIndia. Dwivedi, a 1995-batch officer of Chhattisgarh cadre, will have a tenure of five-year from the date he assumes the charge. Currently, he is posted as Principal Secretary, Commercial Tax, in the Chhattisgarh government.

"The President is pleased to appoint Shri Gaurav Dwivedi, IAS (CH-95) as Executive Member (Chief Executive Officer) in Prasar Bharati with effect from the date he assumes charge of the office, for a term of five years," read an order issued by the Information and Broadcasting Ministry on Monday.

BJP made Teen Murti out of reach for Cong: Kharge

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

PAYING tributes to the country's first Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru on his 133 rd birth anniversary, Congress President Mallikarjun Kharge said that the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) government at the Centre has made Teen Murti Bhavan out of bounds for the party. Teen Murti Bhavan, the official residence of Jawaharlal Nehru for 16 years, has now been converted into a museum of all former Prime Ministers of India.

Kharge was speaking at an event titled 'Nehru in 21st Century' at Jawahar Bhawan in the capital. "The party used to hold Nehru memorial talks every year on his birth anniversary in Teen Murti Bhavan, which was attended by eminent historians. Now, the current dispensation does not even allow space to talk about Nehru, he said.

Mallikarjun Kharge, Cong president

Kharge said that though Nehru guided the country to become a modern nation and set up the Planning Commission to bring about a welfare state, the BJP failed to acknowledge the contributions of the first PM of the country. "The BJP's constant refrain is "What did the Congress do in the last 70 years? Can't they see the progress the country made in economy, literacy, agriculture and other spheres?" he asked. Taking a dig at the BJP, he said that "the planning commission is now being changed into Niti Ayog, which has no niti."

The BJP's policy is to divide and rule, he alleged. "But we are trying to unite the country. Rahul Gandhi is walking leading 'Bharat Jodo Yatra' to unite the country," he said.

Discontent intensifies in Gujarat BJP in 40 seats

'Disputes' over rival claims persist as Shah attempts to douse fire

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

IF Home Minister Amit Shah's hectic schedule in Gujarat for the last two days is any indication, it would appear that the BJP is facing unusual resentment not seen for many years in the poll-bound state.

Sources said of the 178 nominations — 12 were declared late Monday that the party has announced — at least 40 Assembly seats have come under 'disputes' between rival claimants. Elections for the 182-member Gujarat Assembly are due Dec 1 and 5. Meanwhile, BJP announced 12 more candidates on Monday. With this, the party has announced 178 candidates for the 182-member Assembly.

On Sunday, Shah remained engrossed in a series of meetings with various party leaders at the BJP office for more than four hours. On Monday, he reportedly discussed action plans centred on removing resentment among party leaders, party sources said. Given the prevailing mood, the party was trying to get in touch with the remaining 16 candidates through mobile phones.

On the other hand, the supporters of Dhavalsingh Jhala, whom the party has dropped from the Bayad constituency, are protesting at the BJP headquarters Kamalam. Similar is the case with the Patan constituency.

The chaos within the party started as soon as the first and second lists of candidates were announced. Sources say if rival claims are not sorted out soon, then Shah will have to stay in Gujarat for three more days for damage control.

"On Sunday evening, Shah held a four-hour meeting at the state BJP office at Kamalam. CM Bhupendra Patel, Union Minister Mansukh Mandaviya, and general secretaries of four state zones were also present. Shah was working on a plan to cool down temperatures," said a BJP leader. "In the meeting, Shah told the leaders in clear terms: People who are upset belong to the BJP family. Instead of putting pressure on them, act with understanding and love," said a party source.

According to a rough plan, a team of state leaders will hold one-to-one discussions with discontented leaders.

UP BYPOLLS

Dimple files papers for Mainpuri seat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

DIMPLE Yadav, Samajwadi Party candidate for upcoming bypoll to Mainpuri Lok Sabha seat, filed her nomination papers at Mainpuri district collectorate on Monday. She was accompanied by her husband and SP chief Akhilesh Yadav along with party's Rajya Sabha member Ram Gopal Yadav, nephew Tej Pratap Singh Yadav and others.

SP chief put all the speculation of rift in the family to rest by saying that the family was united over Dimple's candidature and everyone would campaign for her. The political circles were abuzz with the reported differences between uncle Shivpal and Akhilesh over choice of candidate for Mainpuri bypoll as Shivpal himself was reported to be in contention.

The voting for the bypoll to Mainpuri, Rampur and Khatauli seats will take place on December 5 and Khatauli. The results will be announced on December 8.

UP civic polls: For parties, it's semis before LS elections

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

ALL parties in UP have got into poll mode for the urban local body polls due this year. These polls gave a broad indication of the ground situation and are seen as the semi-final for the 2024 Lok Sabha polls. However, the BJP and SP have to go through another litmus test at the bypoll to three crucial Assembly seats, including Mainpuri, Rampur and Khatauli, in the first week of December before going into the civic polls.

All the mainstream parties are gearing up to field the candidates in civic polls. While the ruling BJP, SP and Congress have started the process of identifying the probables by appointing in-charges in different districts, smaller players like Suheldev Bharatiya Samaj Party (SBSP) of OP Rajbhar and Shivpal Yadav of Pragatisheel Samajwadi Party are also getting ready to register their presence. Aam Aadmi Party is also preparing to fight the civic polls.

At present, the delimitation process of municipal wards is going on war footing and completed in 53 districts of the state till Saturday. In the remaining 22 districts, the process is ongoing with the urban development department giving final touches to the proposals received from those districts. Sources in the BJP said that the ruling party would contest the civic polls by fielding or supporting Muslim candidates in wards dominated minority community.

SP will contest the civic polls in alliance with Jayant Chaudhury-led Rashtriya Lok Dal (RLD). A committee has been set up on the instructions of SP chief Akhilesh Yadav. On the other hand, the Congress party, which got a new state chief in Brijlal Khabri a month ago, is also preparing for the upcoming civic polls.

Raut to soon publish books he penned in jail

Thackeray-led Shiv Sena MP Sanjay Raut was in Arthur Road Jail for 102 days in connection with a money laundering case. His three plus-month-long jail stay gave Raut, also editor of Shiv Sena mouthpiece Saamana, ample time to pen two books. Most of all, these two books will soon be published in Marathi. One of the books narrates his time in jail and how he fought off feelings of stagnation. The second book will be India's golden days and present situations inspired by Marathi writer Shanta Shelke's book. Raut is a has several books to his name, such as a compilation of his columns Rokhthok, Yuganta, Sunna Karnare Divas, and many more.

Shinde eating into Uddhav camp figures

Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's Shiv Sena faction seems to be adept in poaching members from families of Uddhav Thackeray faction leaders – an exercise the former has been carrying out to exert his growing strength in Maharashtra. Recently, firebrand leader of the Uddhav group Sushama Andhare – popular for her fiery speeches and well received in rural Maharashtra – was countered by Shinde when her deserted non-political husband was inducted into his faction. Shinde even had Jaidev Thackeray, Uddhav's older sibling, facilitated at his recent Dusshera rally. Lok Sabha MP Gajanan Kirtikar joined Shinde camp while his son stayed put.

'Rebel' Awhad lying low after regime switch

After the change of guard in Maharashtra, CM Eknath Shinde's (who is Thane guardian minister) political local opponent NCP MLA Jitendra Awhad has decided to lay low having come upon the vindictive nature of the former. The former NCP minister could not control himself over the ideological issue of wrong and fictionalised portrayal of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj in the film Har Har Mahadev. He went on to halt the screening of the film, which landed Awhad in jail. Awhad, is an activist and rebel by nature as his Twitter bio says, and could not restrain himself whenever there is an issue over ideology.

Tihar supdt bent rules for AAP neta, suspended

UJWAL JALALI @New Delhi

DELHI chief secretary Naresh Kumar on Monday suspended Tihar jail superintendent Ajit Kumar for allegedly providing special treatment to jailed Aam Aadmi Party minister Satyendar Jain.

The order said Ajit Kumar, ad-hoc Danics / superintendent, central jail No 7, Tihar, is placed under suspension with immediate effect. "During the period this order shall remain in force, the headquarters of Ajit Kumar should be Delhi and he shall not leave the headquarters without obtaining the permission," it added.

Recently, during Jain's hearing, the Enforcement Directorate had told a court that the former abused his power inside jail and got special treatment.

Incarcerated conman Sukesh Chandrashekhar has also levelled 'extortion' allegations against Jain, which were first reported by this newspaper on November 1.

Since then, Chandrashekhar has written multiple letters addressed to the media and Lieutenant Governor V K Saxena. On November 4, days after this newspapers's report, Delhi Director General (Prisons) Sandeep Goel was transferred.

Molestation case against ex-NCP minister Awhad

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

A day after comingout from jail on bail, NCP MLA and former Maharashtra minister Jitendra Awhad wasagain booked for molesting and outraging the modesty of a woman in Thane.

The complainant alleged that Awhad pushed her while making way for himself during the dispersal of the crowd afteran event of the chief minister in Mumbra.

Senior Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) Ajit Pawar on Monday said Chief Minister Eknath Shinde should come forward and explain that nothing of this sort had happened as he was present when the crowdwas being dispersed after an event held in Mumbra in Thane district on Sunday evening. The Mumbra police registered a case after midnight on Monday against Awhad under Indian Penal Code section 354 (assault or criminal force to woman with intent to outrage hermodesty). Interestingly, the same woman had a verbal dispute with Awhad and hisparty workers during Chhath Pooja.

Awhad is the MLA from Mumbra-Kalwa set in Thane district. "Police lodged two fake complaints against me including on charges under IPC 354. I am deciding to resign as MLA.I will fight against such police atrocities against me. I cannot see the murder of democracy with my eyes,' Awhad tweeted on Monday.

Awhad was arrested on Friday after he and his supporters stopped a show of the Marathi movie "Har Har Mahadev" at a multiplex in Thane city alleging "a distorted portrayalof Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj". He was granted bail by a court on Saturday.

Ajit Pawar said, "I insist that the way this case (against Awhad)has been registered in the wrong manner, it should be withdrawn. CM Eknath Shinde was there at the programme and Awhad was also present at the event. He (Awhad) is seen in the video asking people to move aside (to make way) and was also seen trying to make the woman step aside. Nothing else happened. Even though Shinde was just 10 meters away from the spot, this kind of offence was registered," said Pawar.

Mizoram: 15 feared trapped as stone quarry collapses

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

AROUND 12-15 people were feared trapped after a stone quarry collapsed in Mizoram's Hnahthial district on Monday.

The mishap occurred at Maudarh village around 2:40 pm when the labourers of ABCI Infrastructure Private Limited were working in the quarry.

Mizoram's Additional Secretary of Disaster Management and Rehabilitation Department Lalhriatpuia told this newspaper around 15 people were believed to be at the site. "According to a report I received, no human bodies were recovered till 8 pm," Lalhriatpuia said.

Asked what might have led to the mishap, he said, "The mining or quarrying method of these people is crude. They are not using scientific method."

The district authorities rushed a medical team to the site. The rescue operation was on when reports last came in. Maudarh is a small hamlet located about 23 km away from Hnahthial town. The company which is currently constructing a highway between Hnahthial and Dawn village, collects stones or boulders from the quarry.

10 booked for human trafficking in MP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

TEN office-bearers and members of Christian community related entities, including children homes, have been booked for allegedly indulging in human trafficking and religious conversion, besides violating juvenile justice law norms in Damoh district of Madhya Pradesh.

The FIR was lodged against the 10 people at Damoh Dehat police station on Sunday night on the complaint of National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) chairperson Priyank Kanoongo, who along with State Commission for Protection of Child Rights (SCPCR) member Omkar Singh had conducted surprise inspection of the three entities on the same day.

The 10 accused who have been booked under Section 370 IPC (human trafficking), Sections 42 and 75 of Juvenile Justice Act 2015 and Sections 3 and 5 of MP Freedom of Religion, included three women.

Earlier on Sunday, a joint team of the central and state child rights commissions headed by the NCPCR head conducted surprise checks at three Christian community related entities, including a children's home and a hostel.

The children's home operators locked the gates and didn't allow us to enter the premises. We managed to enter the premises through a damaged barbed fencing with the help of local police and found that the children were kept behind shutters

Priyank Kanoongo, NCPCR chief

"During the inspection of a children's home run by one Bible Society, it was found that a 17-year-old boy, hailing from Dindori district was alienated from studies and brought to the home in Damoh via a man Krishna and handed over to one Henry for being trained as Christian priest. This prima facie appears a clear case of human trafficking," Kanoongo said.

"The inspection was also carried out at a children's home run by Central India Christian Services Society. When our team went there for inspection, the children's home operators locked the gates and didn't allow us to enter the premises. We managed to enter the premises through a damaged barbed fencing with the help of local police and once in we found that the children there were kept behind shutters." he added.

RSS chief unveils Birsa Munda statue, says tribals pride of India

EJAZ KAISER @Raipur

RASHTRIYA Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) chief Mohan Bhagwat exhorted the scheduled tribes (ST) "to remain aware and feel proud of their strong cultural heritage that reflects the tradition of our ancestors".

He unveiled the statue of late Dilip Singh Judeo, a firebrand BJP leader and former Union minister who was long associated with 'ghar wapsi' as the ritual campaign (home coming of indigenous tribals who converted to Christianity back to Hinduism). Bhagwat attempted to impress upon the implicit lineage of the tribals while recalling the Judeo's footprint and his influence in safeguarding the religion of ST in the region. Chhattisgarh will go to Assembly elections next year. Judeo, popularly known as 'Kumar Sahab or Raja Sahab' belonged to the erstwhile royal family of Jashpur, north-east of Chhattisgarh.

"The pride of culture and tradition of our ancestors gives us vigour of courage, sacredness, affinity. In terms of religion the pride of tribal tradition is infact Indian tradition. So, every Indian should stand with the ST to safeguard their faith, culture and tradition just like Dilip Singh Judeo did", said Bhagwat. On the eve of Janjatiya Gaurav Divas, dedicated to the memory of brave tribal freedom fighters, the RSS chief also unveiled the statue of tribal freedom fighter Birsa Munda in Jashpur.

"The religion of the tribal is not just theirs but also the pride of the entire Indian", he added while addressing the rally during the occasion.

Jashpur has 63% tribal population and one of the key districts of Sarguja range in north Chhattisgarh where out of the 14 assembly constituencies the BJP couldn't win a single seat in 2018 assembly polls.

Political experts view Bhagat's visit as an attempt to curry favour of the tribal communities. "The RSS sarsanghchalak's visit apparently is a political attempt to lure the tribal community. The BJP and its mentor RSS know that the road to power in Chhattisgarh is possible via tribal belt", said Ashok Tomar, political commentator. The PCC president Mohan Markam welcoming the presence of the RSS chief in the Congress-ruled Chhattisgarh asked him "not to vitiate the social harmony of the state or execute the hidden agenda of divide and rule of the right wing organisation".

The senior BJP leaders retorted to the comments of the Congress leader questioning his understanding.

Mamata says sorry for minister's Prez remark

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

THREE days after one of her cabinet ministers, Akhil Giri, made remarks aimed at President Draupadi Murmu, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday apologised on behalf of the Trinamool Congress.

"Akhil should not have made such a comment. I condemn it. I apologised on behalf of my party. Our party already apologised. We have cautioned Akhil. In future, if anyone of our party makes a comment on a woman's skin complexion, our party will take stern action against him," said Mamata at Nabanna, the state secretariat.

Mamata's apology came a day before her visit to Belpahari in Jhargram, a tribal-dominated region where the BJP made deep inroads in the 2019 Lok Sabh elections. Giri's remark triggered demonstrations organised by the BJP in different districts involving tribals. Condemning Giri's action, Mamata said, "Personally, I have great regard for the President. Giri made a mistake."

The TMC had voted against the President and Mamata

softened her stance after the NDA announced the name of its nominee, the first tribal candidate in the presidential election.

On November 11, Giri was caught on camera commenting on the President's look while hitting out at the Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari and the video went viral the next day drawing flak from all political parties. While taking on Adhikari, who defeated Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee in the 2021 Assembly elections, Giri dragged the President without naming her and said, "He (Adhikari) says I am not good-looking. How beautiful he is! We don't judge people by their looks. We respect the chair of your President. How does your Rashtrapati look?"

Murmu to visit MP as chief guest on Tribal Pride Day

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE@ Bhopal

PRESIDENT Droupadi Murmu will be on a two-day visit to BJP-ruled Madhya Pradesh, starting on Tuesday.

She will be the chief guest at the state level programme to mark the Janjatiya Gaurav Diwas (Tribal Pride Day) marking the birth anniversary of tribal hero of the country's freedom movement Birsa Munda. The state's chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan will announce the implementation of PESA Act in the state in the interest of the tribal population of the state, whose 22% population is from the tribal segment.

This will be President Droupadi Murmu's first visit to the central Indian state, since becoming the president of the country in July 2022.

Prior to this she had come to Bhopal in July to campaign as NDA's presidential poll candidate. After gracing the Janjatiya Gaurav Diwas's state level event in Shahdol district on Tuesday afternoon, the President will fly to Bhopal to lay foundation of slew of government projects (via virtual mode), including the four-laning of Ratapani-Obedullaganj-Itarsi road and new laboratory of Defence Research Development Establishment (DRDE) Gwalior.

She will also grace the gathering of representatives of women self-help groups in Bhopal on Wednesday.

BIDEN, XI AGREE TO REOPEN LINES OF COMMUNICATION TO AVOID WAR

The two leaders clash over Taiwan, but concur on need to manage their differences

BALI

US President Joe Biden and his Chinese counterpart Xi Jinping on Monday held their first face-to-face meeting here with both leaders agreeing on the need to manage their differences and prevent a conflict, amid Beijing's coercive military posturing against Taiwan and in the strategic Indo-Pacific region.

The high-profile meeting between Biden and Xi that lasted nearly three hours took place on the margins of the G20 summit here in this Indonesian city. Both leaders, without their masks, shook hands and greeted each other with smiles, standing in front of a row of US and Chinese flags.

In his opening remarks, Biden said that he was committed to keeping the lines of communication open with Xi. Dialogue between the two countries was suspended in August, when Beijing cancelled dialogue across a number of areas in retaliation for US House Speaker Nancy Pelosi's visit to Taiwan. After Pelosi's visit, China held a series of provocative live military exercises around Taiwan to make its concerns clear.

US President Joe Biden and China's President Xi Jinping meet on the sidelines of the G20 Summit in Nusa Dua in Bali, Indonesia on Monday | AFP

"I'm committed to keep lines of communication open between you and me personally, but our governments across the board, because our two countries have so much that we have the opportunity to deal with," he said.

"As the leaders of our two nations share responsibility in my view to show that China and the US can manage our differences, prevent competition from becoming anything even near conflict and find ways to work together on urgent, global issues that require our mutual cooperation," he added. On his part, Xi said the world is paying attention to the high-stakes meeting between him and President Biden. "Currently the China-US relationship is in such a situation that we all care a lot about it because this is not the fundamental interest of our two countries and peoples, and it is not what the international community expects (from) us," Xi said.

"As leaders of the two major countries we need to chart the right course for the US China relationship. We need to find the right direction for the bilateral relationship going forward and elevate the relationship," he added.

"The world expects that China and the United States will properly handle the relationship. Our meeting has attracted the world's attention, so we need to work with all countries to bring more hope to world peace, greater confidence to global stability and strong impetus to common development," Xi said.

Addressing a press conference after the bilateral meeting, Biden said he did not interpret any "imminent attempt" by China to invade Taiwan. Biden said in their talks, he made clear the US policy toward Taiwan had not changed, despite saying four times ahead of the talks the US would defend Taiwan militarily if China attacked it.

On his part, Xi told Biden that the Taiwan question is at the very core of China's core interests, and the "first red line that must not be crossed" in their bilateral ties. PTI

Afghan supreme leader orders full enforcement of Sharia law

KABUL

AFGHANISTAN'S supreme leader has ordered judges to fully enforce aspects of Islamic law that include public executions, stonings and floggings, and the amputation of limbs for thieves, the Taliban's chief spokesman said.

Zabihullah Mujahid tweeted late Sunday that the "obligatory" command by Hibatullah Akhundzada came after the secretive leader met with a group of judges.

Akhundzada, who has not been filmed or photographed in public since the Taliban returned to power in August last year, rules by decree from Kandahar, the movement's birthplace and spiritual heartland.

The Taliban promised a softer version of the harsh rule that characterised their first stint in power, from 1996-2001, but have gradually clamped down on rights and freedoms.

"Carefully examine the files of thieves, kidnappers and seditionists," Mujahid quoted Akhundzada as saying.

Hibatullah Akhundzada

"Those files in which all the sharia (Islamic law) conditions of hudud and qisas have been fulfilled, you are obliged to implement."

"This is the ruling of sharia, and my command, which is obligatory." Mujahid was not available Monday to expand on his tweet.

Hudud refers to offences which, under Islamic law, certain types of punishment are mandated, while qisas translates as "retaliation in kind" — effectively an eye for an eye.

Hudud crimes include adultery — and falsely accusing someone of it — drinking alcohol, theft, kidnapping and highway robbery, apostasy and rebellion.

Qisas covers murder and deliberate injury, among other things, but also allows for the families of victims to accept compensation in lieu of punishment.

Islamic scholars say crimes leading to hudud punishment require a very high degree of proof, including — in the case of adultery — confession, or being witnessed by four adult male Muslims.

Social media has been awash for over a year — and even recently — with videos and pictures of Taliban fighters meting out summary floggings to people accused of various offences. AFP

7 killed as violence strikes 2 US varsities

WASHINGTON

SEVEN university students were dead and at least one gunman was on the run Monday following weekend violence that struck two US campuses in the states of Idaho and Virginia, authorities said.

Police were hunting for the student suspect in a shooting that left three people dead and two others wounded at the University of Virginia about 160 kilometers southwest of the nation's capital Washington.

A student at the university identified as Christopher Darnell Jones Jr was suspected to have carried out the shooting on campus Sunday night, University of Virginia president Jim Ryan said in a statement.

More than 2,000 kilometres to the west in the Rocky Mountain state of Idaho, police were investigating a separate incident in which four students were found dead Sunday in a home near the University of Idaho campus, believed to be the "victims of homicide." AFP

SL govt takes over $1.7 bn in debt owed to China

COLOMBO

CRISIS-HIT Sri Lanka said on Monday it would take responsibility for $1.7 billion owed to China by state enterprises as it seeks to sell them off and restructure its foreign debt to secure an IMF bailout.

The government of President Ranil Wickremesinghe is in talks with the Washington-based lender as it seeks funding to enable the island to recover from its worst-ever financial crisis.

His predecessor Gotabaya Rajapaksa was forced to flee the country and resign after demonstrators overran his house following months of protests over the unprecedented economic hardships faced by the 22 million population.

Sri Lanka defaulted on its foreign debt in April and the IMF has said its borrowings must be "sustainable" to unlock any new external funding. That will require its creditors to take a haircut on their loans, but China is its biggest lender and Beijing has given no indication it is willing to do so.

Wickremesinghe said $1.7 billion in loans taken from China's Export-Import Bank by three key loss-making state-owned enterprises (SOE) — the electricity utility, Port Authority, and Airport and Aviation Services — would be considered government debt.

Taking the loans off their books will strengthen their balance sheets, which could make them more attractive to buyers or outside investors. The IMF has said the country should also restructure its loss-making state enterprises. Wickremesinghe, who is also the finance minister, signalled the selling-off of five state-owned companies, including the national carrier SriLankan Airlines — which has debts of more than $1 billion — to reduce the strain on the national budget.

Proceeds from the "restructure" of the companies will be used to boost the country's depleted foreign reserves, he said, without giving estimates.

LTIMINDTREE BEGINS OPS AS MERGED ENTITY

Combined org is now 5th largest IT services firm by m-cap in India

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

LARSEN & TOUBRO INFOTECH (LTI) and Mindtree received approval for their merger on Monday and they began operating as a merged entity from from the same day (November 14). The combined entity- LTIMindtree- is now the fifth-largest IT services company by market capitalisation in India.

Both the companies on Monday announced that Mumbai and Bengaluru Benches of National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) have approved, via two separate orders, the scheme of amalgamation and arrangement between the two companies. LTIMindtree has a client portfolio of more than 750 global enterprises from all key industry verticals.

In May this year, both Mindtree and LTI announced their intent to merge. A M Naik, Group Chairman of L&T and Chairman of LTIMindtree, said, "LTIMindtree is integral to L&T's technology-led growth vision and is poised to play a crucial role in the expansion and diversification of our services portfolio." He added that this is a win-win proposition for all its stakeholders. "LTIMindtree hopes to go from good to great and drive double digit growth over the next five years. The merger will help L&T achieve its goal of increasing the IT services to 25% of the group's total business by 2026," Naik added. As part of the merger, all shareholders of Mindtree will be issued shares of LTI in the ratio of 73 shares of LTI for every 100 shares of Mindtree.

Parent company L&T will hold 68.73% of the merged entity. "The Record Date to determine the eligible shareholders of Mindtree for issue of equity shares of LTI pursuant to the scheme is fixed as November 24, 2022," the company's statement said. Debashis Chatterjee, CEO and MD of LTIMindtree, said, "Amid the proliferation of new business models and revenue streams in a rapidly converging world, LTIMindtree will help businesses proactively take on and shape the future by harnessing the full power of digital technologies."Both LTI and Mindtree together had a combined headcount of 89,271 as of September 2022. In Q2FY23, LTI's revenues stood at ₹4,836.7 crore and Mindtree's revenue from operations was at ₹3,400 crore.

MERGER DETAILS

LTI-Mindtree merger approved by the NCLT Mumbai and Bengaluru benches

LTIMindtree alone is expected to generate $5 billion in revenue next year

Parent company L&T will hold 68.73% of the merged entity

Ahead of the announcement, LTI shares ended at ₹5,161.20 apiece, up 2.05% from its previous close

The combined entity will have a portfolio of more than 750 clients

Probe against promoter not to impact Jet's revival plan: Kalrock

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE revival of Jet Airways has hit another roadblock as the promoter of Kalrock Capital is facing investigation by regulatory agencies in Europe.

This fresh development comes at a time when the airline management is having a tussle with its lenders over the minutes of resolution plan.

Kalrock Capital, however, in a statement on Monday, said the ongoing investigation by regulatory bodies in Liechtenstein, Switzerland and Austria against its promoter, Florian Fritsch, will have no impact on the revival of Jet Airways.

Last week, international media had reported that investigators across Europe had raided properties linked to Fritsch in connection with a money laundering probe.

"Florian confirms that that neither Kalrock Capital Partners nor Jet Airways have any connection with these ongoing investigations, or the charges made there under, and these investigations have no impact the acquisition of Jet Airways, and Jalan-Kalrock Consortium remains committed towards Jet Airways," said Kalrock Capital in its statement.

A partner at a leading consultancy firm said there is always risk associated when one-half of your partner is under the purview of regulatory bodies. "If he (Fritsch) is charged with something serious, it definitely would be a setback for Jet Airways revival. It is too early to comment anything more," said the partner requesting anonymity.

Karlrock Capital said that the investigation, which is ongoing, has been initiated based on anonymous complaints filed in relation to certain businesses where Florian is one of the financial investors in his personal capacity. "The disputes are commercial in nature. Florian has already filed complaints with the concerned High Court regarding these disputes and complaints, which are also being investigated," the statement noted.

SpiceJet reports ₹838 cr loss in second quarter

SPICEJET on Monday reported widening of net loss to ` 837.8 crore in the second quarter ending September 2022 (Q2FY23) as record fuel prices and depreciating rupee caused turbulence for the budget carrier. 'Centre ready to bring petrol, diesel under GST ambit'

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE government is ready to bring petrol and diesel under the Goods and Services Tax (GST) regime, provided the states agree on it, said Petroleum and Natural Gas Minister Hardeep Singh Puri said on Monday.

The minister also noted that many countries in the world are witnessing the shortage of fuel and exorbitant price rise but there is no shortage of fuel in the country.

"For bringing the petrol and diesel under the GST, the states have to agree. If the states make the move, we are ready. We have been ready all along. It is another issue how to implement it. That question should be addressed to the finance minister," Hardeep Singh Puri told reporters here. Whenever the transport fuel price goes up in the domestic market, the demand of bringing petroleum products under the GST ambit comes to the fore. It is believed petrol and diesel prices will come down if it is brought under GST. However, states are not willing to bring it under the GST regime as it would mean giving up the right to fix indirect tax rates on sale of petroluem products.

Both Centre and states earn hefty amounts of tax from petroleum products. The Centre fetched ₹3.63 lakh crore via levy of excise duties on these products in 2021-22. The states earned ₹2.56 lakh crore via VAT/sales tax on these products. If petroleum products are brought under GST, states will lose flexibility to adjust sales tax or VAT rates as per their revenue needs. Meanwhile, the minister said petroleum prices have seen a sharp rise from July 2021 to August 2022 with 43% to 46% in the US and Canada, while India was the only country where there was only 2% rise during this period. "When many countries are witnessing shortage of fuel and price rise, there is no shortage of fuel in India even in the remotest corners of the country," said the minister.

Tax collected by Centre and states on petroleum products

Year	Excise duty collected by the Centre (₹ cr)	VAT/sales tax collected by the states (₹ cr)
2017-18	229,716	185,850
2018-19	214,369	201,265

LIC reduces 2% stake in Adani Ports and SEZ in nearly 3 years

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

LIFE INSURANCE CORPORATION (LIC) has reduced its stake in Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone (APSEZ) by nearly 2% over a period of nearly three years, the state-run insurer informed the exchanges on Monday.

This stake sale announcement by LIC comes amid growing talks of its investment in Adani Group companies even when foreign institutional investors were opting to cash out after a few years of a staggering bull-run that made its promoter Gautam Adani Asia's richest billionaire.

"This is to inform that Corporation's shareholding in "ADANI PORTS AND SEZ LTD" has diluted from 240,147,873 to 197,526,194 equity shares, decreasing its shareholding from 11.369% to 9.351% of the paid-up capital of the company," LIC said in a regulatory filing.

It said the holding decreased by 2.018% during the period from January 23, 2019, to November 11, 2022, at an average cost of ₹646.59. On Monday, APSEZ shares closed the trading session at ₹895 apiece with a market capitalization of ₹1.93 lakh crore. As per shareholding pattern data of the seven listed Adani group firms, LIC increased its holding in four -- Adani Enterprises (AEL), Adani Green Energy, Adani Total Gas and Adani Transmission in past one year.

LIC's stake in Adani Group flagship AEL grew to 4.02% as of September 2022 from 2.22% year-ago period, while in Adani Total Gas, LIC hiked its holding to 5.77% from 3.58%. Its stake in Adani Transmission grew to 3.46% in September 2022 from 2.42% in the same month last year. LIC holds 1.15% in Adani Green as well. Meanwhile, share prices of LIC rose as much as 9% intraday on Monday, its best intra-day percentage gain since it made a discounted listing on the bourses on May 17, 2022. The surge came after the country's largest insurer reported strong earnings for the September quarter on Friday.

IRCTC NET PROFIT RISES 42% TO ₹226 CRORE

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIAN RAILWAY CATERING AND TOURISM CORPORATION (IRCTC) on Monday (November 14) reported a 42% increase in net profit at ₹226 crore for the second quarter of financial year 2022-23 ending September 30, 2022 (Q2FY23).

The company had reported a net profit of ₹159 crore in the year-ago period.

The catering company, owned by Indian Railways, reported a 7.7% drop in net profit from ₹245.5 crore recorded in the previous quarter (Q1FY23). Its total income increased 105% to ₹832 crore in Q2FY23 from ₹405 crore in Q2FY22, while revenue from operations surged 99% to ₹806 crore in the quarter under review from ₹405 crore in the same quarter last fiscal.

One of the prime contributors to revenue, IRCTC's catering services reported a multi-fold rise to ₹334 crore as compared to ₹71 crore after being hit by COVID-19 pandemic.

The company's ticketing revenue also rose 13% to ₹300 crore from ₹265 crore year-on-year.

The public sector company's total expenses increased to ₹524 crore during the quarter (Q2FY23), as compared to ₹207.4 crore in the year-ago period.IRCTC stock closed 1.46% higher to ₹758.90 apiece on the BSE on Monday after gaining over 2% in early trade. IRCTC's EPS also increased to ₹2.82 in Q2FY23 from ₹1.98 in Q2FY22.

ONGC net profit down 30%, revenue up 54%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

STATE-OWNED oil exploration firm ONGC on Monday reported 30% year-on-year drop in its net profit on a standalone basis in the second quarter of the financial year. The company reported a net profit of ₹12,826 crore in the September 2022 quarter compared to ₹18,348 crore in the same quarter previous year. The revenue, however, increased by 54% to ₹38,321 crore on a standalone basis during the quarter.

On a consolidated basis, its net profit fell 54% to ₹8,299 crore, while revenues jumped 38.2% to ₹1,68,656 crore. RETAIL, WHOLESALE INFLATION DECLINE IN OCTOBER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

TWO days after Reserve Bank of India governor Shaktikanta Das said inflation was cooling, government data released on Monday showed that both retail and wholesale inflation indeed moderated in October.

According to data released by the National Statistical Office, retail inflation cooled to a three-month of 6.77% in the month, thanks to easing of food prices. The inflation had stood at 7.41% in September, while it was at 4.48% in October last year.

Notably, food and beverages inflation cooled to 7.04% in October from 8.41% a month ago.

RBI is supposed to maintain inflation at 4% with a margin of 2% on either side. As it failed to do so, it has sent a report to the Centre giving reasons for the high prices and steps it has undertaken to control it.

"The inflation trajectory since last quarter has been moving in the direction as portrayed by the RBI in its monetary policy. We expect retail inflation to be in neighbourhood of 6.5% mark as projected by RBI in 3QFY23," said Sunil Sinha, principal economist at India Ratings & Research.

According to Crisil's chief economist Dharmakirti Joshi, core inflation remains sticky at 6%. "Its major components (clothing and footwear, recreation, personal care and effects) are up on-year, indicating recovering demand allowed producers to pass on higher input costs to selling prices."

The wholesale price-based index also dropped to 8.39%, on lower food and fuel prices. It was at 10.7% in September.

GOVT MEASURES WORKING: FINMIN

The finance ministry said the "drastic decline" in October retail inflation is mainly due to a dip in food price inflation

The impact of government measures to check price rise would be felt more significantly in the coming months, it added

"Prices of commodities like crude oil, iron ore & steel sobered in global markets. This, coupled with measures taken by the government to rationalise tariff structures of major inputs to augment domestic supply, helped to keep cost-push inflation in consumer items under control," the ministry said

FTX exchange collapse: Crypto firms try to win back investors' confidence

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

AFTER Sam Bankman-Fried's FTX cryptocurrency exchange's collapse, crypto investors are now worried about uncertainty that is rocking the crypto ecosystem.

According to experts, at present, investor sentiment is very low in India, and confidence in exchanges seems to be waning. On Monday, Bitcoin was trading below $16,000, and Ethereum was trading below $1,200. The two largest cryptocurrencies – Bitcoin and Ethereum- have seen an approximately 25% decline over the past week.

Crypto exchange WazirX on Monday told its users they don't risk customer assets and maintain a safe custody approach. It reiterated that safety and protection of customer assets are of paramount importance to the exchange. "We would like to assure you WazirX is not affected. The customer assets are appropriately segregated, accounted for, and held by the exchange in a custodial capacity, insulating the assets from such risks. Deposits, withdrawals, and trading are fully functioning, and it is business as usual for WazirX and its users," it said. The world's largest crypto exchange Binance said it is forming an industry recovery fund to help projects that are otherwise strong but in a liquidity crisis. Before filing for bankruptcy, FTX was facing a significant liquidity crunch.

"Crypto is not going away. We are still here. Let's rebuild," Binance CEO Changpeng Zhao said. Crypto investing platform CoinSwitch said they don't have exposure to FTX and its token FTT. "We enabled Riskometer on Solana (SOL), a risk feature that warns on highly volatile coins or when the company feels users need to proceed with caution while investing — in SOL, one of the tokens exposed to Sam Bankman-Fried and his firms Alameda Research and FTX," Ashish Singhal, Co-founder and CEO, CoinSwitch said.

START-UP FUNDING

Yulu secures ₹73 crore financing from US DFC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

ELECTRIC mobility start-up Yulu has received a ₹73 crore ($9 million) loan from the US International Development Finance Corporation (DFC).

The funds will bolster Yulu's momentum towards its vision of enabling green last-mile mobility for people movement and goods deliveries, the start-up said. Anuj Tewari, CFO, Yulu (Bikes Pvt Ltd) said, "As the market leader in electric mobility, Yulu has served first and last mile mobility needs of millions of users. Yulu fulfills 6 of United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, and has successfully built a clean mobility business in India based on positive unit economics." This financing from the DFC speaks about their belief in Yulu's vision and the ability to execute at scale, to not just create a green mobility alternative but also to create livelihoods through direct and indirect employment opportunities, he added. Founded in 2017, the company claims to have made over 75 million green deliveries using Yulu EVs so far, and it helped save 15,000 metric tons of CO_2 emissions. In September, Yulu raised around ₹650 crore in its Series-B round, which was led by US-based mobility technology company Magna International. Existing investors including Bajaj Auto also participated in the round.

Smartphone shipment in India falls 10% in Q3

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA'S smartphone market declined by 10% year-over-year (YoY), shipping stood at 43 million units in Q32022 (calendar year), according to the International Data Corporation's (IDC) Worldwide Quarterly Mobile Tracker.

According to IDC, this is the lowest third-quarter shipment since 2019 despite an early onset of Diwali festivities.

This reason for lower sales in the quarter is weakening demand and increasing price. Overall, the ASP (average selling price) reached a record $226, growing by 15% YoY and 6% QoQ. "The ASP has grown consistently for the past eight quarters in a row due to increasing costs and growing 5G shipments at mid-premium price points," said Upasana Joshi, research manager, client devices, IDC India.

The research noted that 5G reached 36% of total smartphones in the third quarter in the current calendar year with 16 million units. India has shipped 67 million 5G smartphones from January 2020 to September 30, 2022. The ASP for 5G smartphones dropped to $393 in 3Q2022 from $509 in the first quarter of 2020. In terms of price segment, phones priced under $300 underperformed, as shipments declined by 15% YoY. The premium segment of above $500 continued to remain the highest growing price band with 64% growth YoY and 8% share.

2024 Paris Olympics, Paralympics mascot unveiled

The mascots for the 2024 Paris Olympics and Paralympics have been revealed - a Phrygian cap. The soft bright red cap, also known as a liberty cap, is an updated version of a conical hat worn in antiquity in places such as Persia, the Balkans, Thrace, Dacia and Phrygia, a place in modern day Turkey where the name originates.

'NEED STRONG MIND TO PERFORM WELL'

Neeraj Chopra has had a good break following a big season. As he recharges his batteries ahead of another big year, the Worlds and the Asian Games among other events, the Olympic champion spoke to this newspaper on a variety of topics. Indraneel Das took notes...

How do you look back at your season?
This season has been very good. For us, the Commonwealth Games was also a part of our big plan and because of the injury, we could not go to Birmingham. Otherwise, wherever I went, like the World Championships and the Diamond League events, I came back with good throws. Whatever we had planned, we went about it.

Where did you go after the Diamond League Finals? Did you manage to go to coach Klaus Bartonietz's home in Germany)?
We could not go. I went with my uncle and there were two friends and we roamed around, mostly in Switzerland. Then we returned to India. In between, we went to Paris also. If we are in Europe, we cannot miss Paris. It's a famous place. Even the (2024) Olympics are supposed to be held there, so we thought we must visit the place. Could not go to the stadium (Olympics venue). Went to the Eiffel Tower and we were there for two days.

How vital is this break?
Whatever work we have, especially our personal work, we take care of that. One must try to keep their fitness intact. One-two weeks is alright but one cannot stay away from training. We stay at home and look after our personal work. At the same time, we train to stay fit.

Last time you struggled to keep your weight in check and had to work hard to shed that extra bit. Have you managed to keep check on that this time?
Whenever I have time, I train. If I think that I have time in the morning, I train. I run on the treadmill at home or do cycling. This time I have tried to keep a check on how much I am eating. This time I am not eating too much sweet and keeping a balance on my diet. We cannot do much training because we have to do other work also. Rigorous training too is not possible because sometimes we may not get the right diet and sometimes you have to go here and there. We make an effort to keep a balance between diet and training.

How do you start your off season training?
We will start with cardio and slowly increase intensity. And shed whatever much weight that has been accumulated. Then we will concentrate on our core strengths and then our joints. We will work on our stamina and endurance. Then we will concentrate on strength and technique and start throwing with javelin and medicine balls. Then we will convert that into speed and as we approach competition, we will reduce our workload and try to gain maximum potential.

After you won gold at the Olympics, training in India has become a little difficult as there are a lot of requests or there are other commitments...
If we train in India, there is personal work. There are marriages (to attend) also. So, I end up going here and there. Even if I miss one day in a week, that will upset my training. When you train, we have to remain focussed. When we go abroad, we can concentrate and remain focussed.

You have been training abroad. Is there a place that you call home?
Wherever we train, that place turns into our second home. After living and training there for one or two weeks, every place feels like home. Wake up in the morning and train. Athletes follow the same routine almost. Wake up in the morning, eat a bit and then get ready for training and then come back. Whatever routine we have in Patiala, we follow it abroad also. It becomes the same everywhere we train. Room is the same, go to the ground, eat and drink the same. We have to balance it. We have to adjust to it.

Talking about diet.. sometimes Indian athletes complain about their diet when they go abroad. I have not heard such a thing from you.
I don't have any problem. I don't eat much of non-vegetarian but I know I have to adjust. We have to compromise on taste if need be but we have to eat. We usually have kitchen where we stay, so we cook food also. Sometimes, we cook dal or rice. We bring yogurt from outside and make raita. We keep Indian food.

Do you cook?
Whatever I feel like, we cook. If I feel like having dal or rice, I cook. If I feel like having veg biryani, we prepare it. We get salt and if we get little bit of turmeric, then it's good.

There is a special bonding between you, coach Klaus and physio Ishaan Marwaha. What do you do when you are not training?
If there are any places close by, we go there or we go out to have food. If I don't want to go, the coach would make his own plan. He loves trekking and hiking so if we train somewhere near the hills, he goes for trekking.

Like this year, will you start the season late next year?
We are still contemplating as the season will be long. The Asian Games will be held in September-October and javelin usually is held towards the end. So we are thinking that we would start our season a little late around May or June next year. It is better to start late so that we can maintain form and peak until the end.

Do you ever feel the need of a mental trainer or psychologist? Or dietician?
I keep consulting with a dietician and talk about what is required during training. But I don't follow everything in detail. Wherever there is need of more diet I take care, and whatever I feel good about, I eat. I try and balance between training and diet. For mental health, there is nothing much as of now. Everything is going fine (laughs). I speak with the coach, I have a good set of family and friends and talk to them. I try and keep myself positive and keep myself strong so that I can perform well. We can seek outside help but when you are inside the ground, you have to keep your mind strong to perform well. So I try and keep myself healthy and strong. I respect the work the experts are doing, a lot of athletes face problems and they help them. Right now, everything is going on well and as long as it is fine, it will continue like this. If required, I will definitely take help.

How do you keep yourself positive? Read something or talk to someone...
Not from anything. I just think about this. When I started I never thought I would be where I'm now. So whatever I have I am happy and I try to keep improving always.

32 withdraw, drama in athletes panel election

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

THE election for the Indian Olympic Association Athletes' Commission on Monday turned out to be an interesting one. The list of athletes sent by National Sports Federations who are part of the Olympic, Asian and Commonwealth Games programme contained 70 members and the list of contestants had 39 members — 20 female and 19 male. The list was released by Returning Officer Umesh Sinha, a former secretary general of the Election Commission.

What was expected to be new beginning for the IOA, ended as the same old story — unanimous election. And what seemed interesting was the number of candidates swelled to 42 from 39. And 32 withdrew their candidature. The first election under the new constitution was not without drama either. There were rumours of high-profile meetings before finalising the candidates.

The provisional list on Sunday did not have three names. Commonwealth Games medallist in table tennis Manika Batra, Pragnya Mohan (Indian Triathlon Federation) and Sandeep from Handball Federation of India. In the end, after so much of scrutiny there was no election.

It is understood that the RO's team had missed the names while listing out on Sunday and realising it as an oversight, they added it in the morning. The RO's office explained that once the oversight was discovered, it was rectified and the three names added. The notice issued by Sinha on Sunday said the provisional list had been released and the final list will be made on Monday. It also said that any anomalies or typographical errors may be brought to the notice of the RO. The time given for withdrawal was given at 8.30am but due to NSFs expressing the difficulties in filing their withdrawal letter in such a short notice, the time was extended to noon (12pm).

However, instead of election, 32 candidates withdrew and finally 10 were elected to the Athletes' Commission unopposed. Among them, as reported by this newspaper, are Olympic medallists Gagan Narang, PV Sindhu, Mary Kom, Mirabai Chanu, Asian Games medallists and Olympians A Sharath Kamal (table tennis), Rani Rampal (hockey), Winter Olympian Shiva Keshavan, fencer Bhavani Devi, 2010 Asian Games gold medallist rower Bajrang Lal and Om Prakash Karhana (2012 Olympics, athletics).

Interestingly, the new contesting candidates' list seemed in a chronological order. The first 10 names were the ones who were elected unanimously to the Athletes' Commission. Sports like rowing and fencing were considered ahead of wrestling that has fetched India multiple medals at the Olympics and other events. In fact, there were no name on the candidates' list, either.

GROUP G

Serbia

21 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Group stage in 2010 and 2018

Other notable performances: Yugoslavia were European Championship runners-up in 1960 and 1968

How they qualified: Winners of European qualifying Group A ahead of Portugal

Key player: Serbia have formidable attacking options, nore more so than Dusan Vlahovic. The 22-year-old forward is a robust presence up front but does not lack for pace or skill. After starting out at Partizan Belgrade, he joined Fiorentina and quickly became a prolific goal-scorer in Serie A. That earned him a 70 million-euro move to Juventus last January. In Turin he has so far averaged almost a goal every second game despite his club's recent struggles. Given his age, his peak years still lie in the future, but Serbia will hope he thrives on the World Cup stage in Qatar.

Switzerland

15 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Quarter-finals in 1934, 1938 and 1954

Other notable performances: Euro 2020 quarter-finalists

How they qualified: Winners of European qualifying Group C

Key player: Forward Breel Embolo, 25, has pace and power in abundance and is hoping to take his early-season form with him to Qatar after leaving Borussia Moenchengladbach for Monaco in the summer. Born in Cameroon, he will get the chance to face the country of his birth in Switzerland's opening group game. Embolo moved to Europe with his mother as a boy and went on to start his footballing career at Basel, where he was given his debut by Yakin. A big-money move to Schalke in 2016 was marred by injuries but as long as he stays fit he could have a key role to play in Qatar.

Portugal

9 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Third place in 1966

Other honours: European Championship winners in 2016

How they qualified: Finished second in European qualifying Group A behind Serbia, and then beat Turkey and North Macedonia in the play-offs.

Key player: Cristiano Ronaldo is the all-time leading goalscorer in international football with 117 goals in a record 191 caps for his country. He has enjoyed a magnificent career but he is now 37 and has endured a difficult start to the season at Manchester United. A five-time Ballon d'Or winner, Ronaldo made his Portugal debut in 2003 at the age of 18 and is now set to play at his 10th major international tournament. However, in many ways he is the key player because some wonder if his presence might hold back the many other outstanding — and far younger — talents in the Portugal squad.

Brazil

1 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Winners 1958, 1962, 1970, 1994, 2002

Other honours: Copa America winners 1919, 1922, 1949, 1989, 1997, 1999, 2004, 2007, 2019; Confederations Cup winners 1997, 2005, 2009, 2013;

How they qualified: Unbeaten winners of the single South American qualifying group

Key player: Having reached the age of 30, Neymar knows this could be his last chance to win a World Cup after the agony of 2014 — when his tournament was ended by injury before he saw his team-mates collapse against Germany — and the disappointment of 2018. The former Santos prodigy left Barcelona for Paris Saint-Germain in a world record deal in 2017 but his move to France has not brought him the collective or individual honours he craves. He has not won the Champions League at PSG and he has still never won a Ballon d'Or. None of that will matter if he can lead Brazil to World Cup glory.

Ghana

14 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Quarter-finalists in 2010

Other honours: African champions in 1963, 1965, 1978, 1982

How they qualified: Ghana defeated Nigeria in a play-off

Key player: Opponents of Ghana who consider Thomas Partey, 29, just a defensive midfielder would do well to watch a clip from the recent 5-0 drubbing Arsenal dished out to Nottingham Forest. The Gunners were three goals up when the former Atletico Madrid star, who became a Gunner in 2020, unleashed an unstoppable shot into the roof of the net. The memorable goal confirmed the opinion of long-serving Atletico manager Diego Simeone that the humble footballer from a village in eastern Ghana is "extraordinary when defending or attacking, providing assists, passing, shooting and scoring". Partey was so eager to play in Europe that he forgot to tell his parents he was leaving west Africa until he arrived in Spain 10 years ago.

Cameroon

43 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Quarter-finalists in 1990

Other honours: African champions in 1984, 1988, 2000, 2002, 2017

How they qualified: Cameroon defeated Algeria in a play-off

Key player: Bayern Munich's Eric Maxim Choupo-Moting, 33, goes to Qatar in outstanding form having scored in seven consecutive matches for the German giants in all competitions. Born in Hamburg to a Cameroonian father and German mother, he has a point to prove at the World Cup after being largely ignored during the Cup of Nations this year. Choupo-Moting was furious at being left out of the quarter-final and semi-final starting line-ups and accused Conceicao of being "disrespectful". He began his senior career with Hamburg, played for three other German clubs and spent time at Stoke City and Paris Saint-Germain before joining Bayern two years ago.

Uruguay

14 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Winners in 1930, 1950

Other honours: Copa America winners in 1916, 1917, 1920, 1923, 1924, 1926, 1935, 1942, 1956, 1959, 1967, 1983, 1987, 1995, 2011

How they qualified: Uruguay finished third in the single South American qualification group

Key player: With Uruguay's top two goalscorers of all time, Luis Suarez and Edinson Cavani, both 35 and playing in their last World Cup, Real Madrid midfielder Federico Valverde is the new talisman for this team. Now 24, the hard-working six-foot tall central midfielder is crucial for club and country. Already a Champions League winner and two-time Spanish champion, Valverde's increasingly mature performances have made him the key cog in Alonso's team.

GROUP H

South Korea

28 FIFA ranking

Best World Cup performance: Fourth place in 2002

Other honours: Asian champions in 1956, 1960

How they qualified: South Korea finished second behind Iran in Asian qualifying Group A Key player: Son Heung-min is the undoubted star man but his World Cup appeared to be in doubt after suffering a serious facial injury for Tottenham Hotspur against Marseille in the Champions League. He had surgery more than a week ago to fractures around his left eye socket but South Korea believe he will be ready. The Spurs forward is captain of his country and their talisman. Son has scored 35 times in 104 appearances for South Korea. He shared the Premier League golden boot with Liverpool's Mo Salah last season as joint top-scorer with 23 goals.

CATCH-UP ZONE — Two of the favourites for the World Cup — Brazil and Portugal — feature in our final group stage previews in our World Cup countdown.

Germany sets out to nationalise Gazprom's wing

Berlin calls it a necessary step in order to protect the country's energy security

ENERGY

BERLIN: Germany announced on Monday it was nationalising a former subsidiary of Russian energy giant Gazprom, saying it was necessary because of the company's systemic importance for power supplies in the country.

The company, Securing Energy for Europe GmbH (SEFE), was previously known as Gazprom Germania.

It is a network operator and indirectly controls Germany's largest gas storage facility in the northwestern town of Rehden. In the wake of Russia's invasion of Ukraine and Moscow's decision to reduce energy supplies to Europe, Berlin placed the SEFE under its effective control in April. But ownership of the company had remained unclear.

As a result, business partners and banks have suspended business relations with SEFE or are reluctant to enter into new ones, the economy ministry said. "This jeopardises the continuation of SEFE's business operations and thus the gas supply," it added.

Germany was therefore formerly nationalising the company and turning it into a state asset. Under complex accounting manoeuvres, the company's losses are offset against its capital reserves.

As a result, Gazprom loses its shareholding in the company, the economy ministry said.

In turn, Germany will plough 225 million euros into the company, thereby taking over as "sole new shareholder".

"This completes the change of ownership," the ministry said. Germany also plans to offer the company a loan of 13.8 billion euros in a debt-equity swap arrangement by the end of the year, although the measure is still under discussion. Once heavily reliant on Russian energy, Berlin has been racing to wean itself off imports of gas and oil from the country.

Meanwhile, the government in Warsaw said on Monday it was seizing Gazprom's share in EuRoPol Gaz, the company that owns the section of the Yamal-Europe natural gas pipeline that runs through Poland.

The move was designed to "ensure the security of (Poland's) critical infrastructure", the development ministry said. The Russian gas giant had a 48% stake in EuRoPol Gaz and the Polish state the remaining 52%.

Yamal pipeline

Gazprom halted gas supplies via the Yamal-Europe gas pipeline in April. The pipeline can carry up to 33 bn cubic metres of gas from Russia's Yamal peninsula and western Siberia through Belarus and Poland to Germany. In May, Russia announced sanctions on more than 30 energy companies

New Zealand targets cow burps to help reduce global warming

How do you stop a cow from burping? It might sound like the start of a humorous riddle, but it's the subject of a huge scientific inquiry in New Zealand. And the answer could have profound effects on the health of the planet

Dairy farmer Aidan Bichan shows a type of feed which may reduce methane emissions at the Kaiwaiwai Dairies in Featherston, New Zealand | AP

COW'S PROCESS OF DIGESTION

Because cows can't readily digest the grass they eat, they ferment it first in multiple stomach compartments, or rumen, a process that releases huge amounts of gas

BELCHING OUT METHANE

More specifically, the question is how to stop cows, sheep and other farm animals from belching out so much methane, a gas which doesn't last as long as carbon dioxide in the atmosphere but is at least 25 times more potent when it comes to global warming

GOAL TO REDUCE METHANE EMISSIONS BY 2050

47%

As part of a push to become carbon neutral, New Zealand's government has promised to reduce methane emissions from farm animals by up to 47% by 2050.

TAXING FARMERS FOR ANIMAL BURPS

Last month the government announced a plan to begin taxing farmers for animal burps, a world-first move that has angered many farmers. All sides are hoping they might catch a break from science

DEVELOPING A VACCINE

Janssen has been working on developing a vaccine for the past 15 years and has focused intensively on it for the past five years. He said it has the potential to reduce the amount of methane belched by cows by 30% or more

A vaccine would stimulate an animal's immune system to produce antibodies, which would then dampen the output of the methane-producing microbes

Solutions for emissions

New Zealand scientists are coming up with some surprising solutions that could put a big dent in those emissions. Among the more promising are selective breeding, genetically modified feed, methane inhibitors, and a potential game-changer—a vaccine

PUTTING ALL IDEAS ON THE TABLE

Nothing is off the table, from feeding the animals more seaweed to giving them a kombucha-style probiotic called "Kowbucha."

One British company has even developed a wearable harness for cows that oxidizes methane as it's burped out

REDUCING METHANE WON'T HARM ANIMALS

Underpinning the research are studies indicating that reducing methane doesn't need to harm the animals or affect the quality of the milk or meat

Peter Janssen, a principal scientist at AgResearch, a government-owned company said the microbes that live in the animals and produce methane seem to be opportunistic rather than integral to digestion

CATTLE OUTNUMBERS PEOPLE IN NEW ZEALAND

In New Zealand, the research has taken on a new urgency. Because farming is central to the economy, about half of the nation's greenhouse gas emissions come from farms, compared to less than 10% in the US New Zealand's 5 million people are outnumbered by 26 million sheep and 10 million cattle

UN probes spying claims at COP27

SECURITY

SHARM EL SHEIKH: United Nations officers running security at the COP27 climate summit in Egypt said on Monday they are probing allegations of surveillance and misconduct by Egyptian police towards delegates.

Participants at COP27—including activists, rights defenders, and civil society groups—have raised cases of "surveillance" during the summit, which opened on November 6 at Egypt's Red Sea resort city of Sharm al-Sheikh.

The UN Department for Safety and Security, which works with Egyptian police to secure the summit, said on Monday it had "been made aware of allegations" of violations of the code of conduct and was "investigating these reports."

Claims surfaced after the German delegation hosted an event featuring Sanaa Seif, sister of jailed hunger-striker and pro-democracy activist Alaa Abdel Fattah.

A German diplomatic source said a complaint was lodged with Egypt as the delegation "felt we were being watched."

Liane Schalatek, associate director of the Heinrich Boll Stiftung foundation in Washington, said she felt "watched" and was "clearly more uncomfortable than at any other COP before."

Schalatek, a climate finance expert who has attended COP conferences since 2008, says this time cameras in meeting rooms were directed at the faces of speakers.

"This is both unnecessary and unusual for such internal coordination meetings," she said. "The possibility that everything is being recorded cannot be ruled out."

International debut

Sachin Tendulkar made his debut for India in international cricket, on this day in 1989, with a test match against Pakistan

CRICKETING LEGEND

Nicknamed 'The Little Master' or 'Master Blaster', Tendulkar made a name for himself at an age of 16 and is credited for many records across all formats of the game

A TRAILBLAZER

Tendulkar is the only batsman to have scored over 2,000 runs in World Cup cricket and also the first international batsman to be given out by a third-umpire

ANOTHER STAR RISES

In the same Test, bowling legend Waqar Younis, who is considered to be one of the greatest fast bowlers, also made his debut for Pakistan

I am the most qualified person in my family, which doesn't translate to the most successful by any means. My mother didn't go to university, my father went to Oxford, but I don't think he got to attend as many classes

Soha Ali Khan, actor

THE OTHER KHAN

In B'luru recently, actor Soha Ali Khan shares the balancing act of being a mum, donning the role of the stricter parent and more

MONIKA MONALISA

SOHA Ali Khan has a quirky sense of humour. Coming from a highly reputed family with everyone successful in their own stream of work, the actor-writer who calls herself 'moderately famous' is the most qualified one, in terms of education. "I am the most qualified person in my family, which evidently doesn't translate to the most successful by any means," says Khan.

A graduate from the University of Oxford as well as from London School of Economics, Khan loved academics unlike her family. "My parents were famous, my father, of course, was a professional sportsperson. My mother didn't go to university, my father went to Oxford, but I don't think he got to attend as many classes. He was on the cricket field. My brother didn't go to university, my sister is a jewellery designer. And I wanted to study history. At that point, my parents said, 'What will you do with history as a subject, it's not really practical.' I said, 'No, I just really enjoy history as a subject'," recalls Khan, crediting her love for history to her favourite teacher.

But times have changed and being a mother to five-year-old Inaaya Naumi Kemmu, she took some time to adapt to change. "I learned that it takes me a lot of time to get on board with new things. So even when it came to online education, I resisted it for the longest time. When the pandemic started, Inaaya stopped going to school, and I literally had to glue her down. Thank God for mute buttons is all I can say," laughs Khan, who was in the city for a day for an event organised by Creative Galileo. Khan has visited the city multiple times on work and has always been fond of the city's weather.

Khan is a huge believer of equal parenting and she and her husband Kunal Kemmu share duties. Of course, she has confessed to being the stricter parent and believes in being a hands-on parent. It is quite evident even on Khan's social media, where she posts cute videos of Inaaya's relationship with her father where the little girl is painting his toenails while Kemmu is taking a nap. She captioned it, 'Mid-morning naps can be hazardous'.

FIT BIT

UPAVISTHA PAWANMUKTASANA
(SEATED WIND RELEASE POSE)

This beginner level seated pose teaches the practitioner to balance the body through the active engagement of the core. Once mastered, practitioners can gradually learn to engage the pelvis and core muscles, release the hands and then lengthen the legs.

STEPS

- Sit on the floor and keep both the legs together in Dandasana (Staff Pose).
- Take 3-4 calm and relaxed breaths here.
- While inhaling, bend the legs at the knees. Bring them as close to the chest as possible.
- With exhalation, hold the knees with the hands and press them against the chest.
- Make sure that your spine and neck stays straight and erect. Slouching can injure the spine.
- Keep your gaze forward. Stay in this position for 4-5 breaths and keep breathing slowly.
- Try to balance yourself on the sit bones; feel the pressure on the hip bones.
- To come out of the pose, release your hands first and then straighten your legs from the knees.
- Relax in Dandasana for 2-3 breaths.

BENEFITS

- Stretches the lower part of the body, strengthens lower back, pelvic area and balances on sit bones.
- Contracts the core muscles and increases core strength gradually.
- Increases the flexibility of leg muscles.
- Helps working on poses like Cosmic Egg Yoga and Navasana.
- Gives a good alignment of the upper body.
- Gently stretches and de-stresses the muscles of the lower body.
- Calms the nervous system and energises the mind.
- Stimulates the abdominal organs and helps improve the digestive process.

At this Varshikotsav, organised by Sursagar, stalwart musicians and members of the organising committee speak about the concert and the continued relevance of Hindustani classical music

SONGS OF YORE

TUNIR BISWAS

HINDUSTANI classical music, one of the oldest forms of organised music in Indian heritage, seems to have found a newfound appeal among the younger demographic. Esteemed classical musician, Pandit Nayan Ghosh, who plays both the sitar and the tabla, feels it is because of the internet.

"Nowadays, the popularity of classical music is catching up very well all across India. Since the boom of the internet, the musical awareness of citizens has grown a lot. YouTube has especially helped younger people discover classical music in all its capacity. I see a lot of youngsters attending concerts nowadays, which is very encouraging," says Ghosh, who was in the city to perform at the 40th year of Varshikotsav held at Canara Union in Malleswaram.

Ghosh was one of the main acts of the concert, who performed along with his son Ishaan Ghosh. The concert was organised by Sursagar, a not-for-profit organisation founded in 1982 that aims to bring the art of Hindustani classical music to the public. What separates Sursagar from most is that they do it all for free.

Shashank Sanade, the honorary secretary of the organisation, says the planning of the concert had begun as early as July. "Since we always try to bring out the some of the best artistes in the field, we start our planning five-six months ahead. Our goal has always been to encourage people into Hindustani classical music. When Sursagar started, there was hardly any presence of Hindustani classical music in Karnataka, especially in Bengaluru. Since then, it has grown in leaps and bounds. Our concerts are open to all. There is no ticketing system and no one in the audience is charged for their attendance," says Sanade.

Ghosh, who has been performing for over 50 years, feels the city offers a great crowd for classical music. "I have performed in at least 40 concerts in this city over the last few decades. Bengaluru is very musically-conscious and the audience response has always been very pleasant," shares Ghosh, who has performed in the city with many prominent musicians, including MS Gopalakrishnan and L Subramaniam.

This concert also graced the presence of Pandit M Venkatesh Kumar. His companion on stage of about 20 years, Satish Kolli, who plays the harmonium, was also present at the event. "The experience was fantastic. The concert was well organised and all the acts performed very well. I performed with Pandit M Venkatesh Kumar, which is always a lot of fun. I am grateful to have shared the stage with him in all these years," concludes Kolli.

> Sunday evening's concert was so magical. Distinguished musicians like Lalith J Rao and Ravindra Yavagal were also present in the audience. In my opinion, our classical music is the greatest, the most subtle and refined product of Indian civilisation

Jobtech institute, Masai School, has raised $10 million in the Series B round. The round also saw participation from two Indian sports stalwarts, the face of women's cricket, Mithali Raj and legendary footballer Bhaichung Bhutia, as investors and partners. The latest fund infusion will enable the company to launch new course categories, as well as include a few other features.

Hospital celebrates Children's Day

Manipal Hospitals dedicated November 14 to celebrating a grownup Children's Day with seniors. The aim was to sensitise youngsters to provide love to their ageing parents. The event included fun activities like memory games, digital sessions, and talent recognition. These activities took the participants on a trip down memory lane and also encouraged them to adopt physical activity.

Celebrating the 10th anniversary of the India Inclusion Summit, speakers at the event talk to CE about the importance of the inclusion movement and what we can do to keep it going further

HOPE WITHIN US

TUNIR BISWAS

WHEN interactive artist Marco Santini asked people on the streets of New York if they were inclusive, most people were taken aback. Like our Western counterparts, such has been the case in India as well.

A quick glance at our country's pop culture can tell us that the representation of specially-abled citizens always comes in the 'hero' form. An instance where someone with disabilities overcame insurmountable odds. While many are quick to accept this as representation, some would argue it is not the case. Portraying a specially-abled person as a regular, common citizen might just do the trick. The India Inclusion Summit (IIS) has been incredibly helpful in normalising the image of specially-abled folks in Indian society. Now in its 10th year, the event was held at the Radisson Blu in Marathahalli with many in attendance.

Santini, who flew in from New York to attend the IIS, was also invited to paint at the United Nations General Assembly in 2019. He believes art can be a powerful tool to create social change. "Personally, I feel art and culture are really tied together and can really influence one another. I created a love logo where it contains the word 'love' in over 80 different languages. In it, I have tried to promote my message of positivity. You can see that Turkish and Armenian, languages of two countries who have historically been hostile to one another, are next to each other, same for Russian and Ukrainian," he shares.

When author Samhita Arni was invited to give a talk at the event, she felt a strangeness overcome her. "I dealt with a learning disability in my formative years, and such topics can be a little difficult to talk about. As a writer, I feel we can help increase the representation specially-abled people in our society in two ways. One is to have characters that are going through such difficulties in their lives. But the other part is thinking about what inclusion means in terms of literature. Do we only show the superheroes? But that is not most people's reality. We need to understand what heroism is. Stories of surviving and thriving in life can be heroic as well," says Arni.

On September 15, 2018, in a freak bus accident on the way to Puducherry, Rishi Krishna lost his right arm. At IIS, he had come to share his story of co-founding Symbionic, an assistive technology startup that aims to enable the lives of one million amputees in India by providing cost-effective bionic arms. "Our company officially started in 2019. We decided to start this to ease the lives of amputees in the country. Bionic arms can cost as high as ₹50 lakh, we offer them at one-tenth the price. The reason behind this is that every part of a bionic arm is designed and manufactured by us. From its censor system to its electronics," says Krishna, who adds that the idea for the company was inspired by the anime and manga Fullmetal Alchemist.

PRAJWAL DEVARAJ
LOHITH H TO TEAM UP FOR THE SECOND TIME

The duo will be collaborating on a time loop horror subject, which is said to be a first-of-its-kind subject in Indian cinema

A SHARADHAA

ACTOR Prajwal Devaraj and director Lohith H are currently working in Mafia, which is in the post-production stage. Meanwhile, the actor and director duo will be teaming up once again for a project, which was launched with a script pooja on Monday.

Speaking to CE about this project, Prajwal shares, "The story penned by Lohith is not a typical commercial entertainer. It is a horror thriller, which will be a first-of-its-kind film revolving around a time loop," explains Prajwal. The actor added that he had understood director Lohith's capabilities while working for Mafia, and decided to join hands with him for another film. "Lohith's perspective on making cinema is very fresh. He has that urge, and passion, and always wants to do something out of the box. He just narrated a synopsis of the subject, and I said yes immediately. Horror is a new genre to me, and the characterisation is different. He plans to give me a new look, and there are a lot of interesting things in store for this project."

Lohith H

Akshay CS and Ravish R, the producers of Devaki and Mummy- Save me, will be bankrolling the project in association with Lohith's Friday Films.

Apart from Mafia, Prajwal Devaraj's line-up of films also include Gana, Veeram, a project with Dilpasand producer Sumanth Kranthi, and filmmaker Mahesh Handral's debut directorial.

'I entered the industry with zero expectations'

...says Rachana Inder, who is happy to have to worked with well-known actors like Krishna, Rishab Shetty, and now with Golden Star Ganesh in Tribble Riding

CE FEATURES

IT has been an interesting year for Rachana Inder. The actor, who made her debut with Love Mocktail, and played a pivotal character in its sequel, started off 2022 with the Rishab Shetty-starrer Hari Kathe Alla Girikathe. She followed it up with director Shashank's Love 360. Her next will be Tribble Riding, starring Golden Star Ganesh, which also features Aditi Prabhudeva and Megha Shetty.

Rachana, who is pursuing her MBA and busy submitting her assignments, took out time to talk about her role, her career, and working with Ganesh in the film.

A still from the film

"When I was taking acting as a profession, one condition from my parents was that I should complete my studies. Since I come from a non-film background, they never wanted me to give up my studies. I am giving my 100 per cent both in my studies, as well as in my films," says Rachana, adding, "I entered the industry with zero expectations, but I'm glad that I got an opportunity to begin my career with an established actor like Krishna, and then acting alongside Rishab Shetty. I got an opportunity to work with a noted director like Shashank, and as a solo heroine. Now, it has only got bigger with Tribble Riding starring Ganesh."

Rachana says that Tribble Riding was a film she began shooting just after Love Mocktail, and to her, it was like just getting into the field without any practice. "Initially I was nervous because they gave dialogues on the spot, and my first shot was with Ganesh and Rangayana Raghu Sir. Since I still have stage fear, I became conscious of so many people around me. I felt the whole spotlight was on me, and for a minute I felt blacked out. But with time, I got comfortable," says Rachana, who plays a gutsy woman named Radhika in the film, which is a complete comic caper with strong elements of emotions.

Except for Love 360, Rachana has always been part of multistarrers, and talking about this coincidence, Rachana says, "Even though Tribble Riding has a big ensemble cast, I play a very significant role. All my scenes are with the Golden Star."

Sharing her working experience with Ganesh, Rachana says that he is a star who always carried a smile on his face. "He always created a light atmosphere on the sets, and it is very helpful for upcoming talents like me. He didn't mind me going for multiple takes, and I never saw him getting irritated or angry, which I should be thankful about," she signs off.

PRODUCER GUNEET MONGA TO TIE THE KNOT IN DECEMBER IN MUMBAI

CE FEATURE

PRODUCER Guneet Monga (Gangs of Wasseypur, The Lunchbox, Pagglait) will tie the knot to Delhi-based businessman Sunny Kapoor in December in Mumbai.

The couple is going to have a Mumbai wedding on December 11 and 12, which will be followed by functions in Delhi on December 16.

In June this year, Guneet and Sunny had 'staged' their wedding for Sunny's ailing grandmother, who was diagnosed with cancer. She passed away a few weeks after the event.

Guneet shares, "Having once staged a whole wedding for Dadi ji we are now set to tie the knot in real life. Though I was born and brought up in Delhi, my whole life is now in Mumbai - my 'Karma Bhoomi'. I have found friends like family here. All the ceremonies will be in Mumbai with a reception in Delhi. Ever since I was 18, I wanted to get married and finally met Sunny last year on a dating app!" She further adds, 'I am so grateful to have found a family that is so loving and giving. Since I lost both my parents at the age of 23, I have dreamt of having a big family and I am so excited for that dream to come true. Can't wait to end the year with a big bang."

Sunny Kapoor is a Delhi-based businessman and fashion entrepreneur who owns a company named Meenakshi Creations.

Guneet was an executive producer on the documentary Period. End of Sentence, which won the Academy Award for Best Documentary Short Subject in 2019. She runs the content-focused film banner Sikhya Entertainment. Their next production, Kathal, starring Sanya Malhotra, is set to release on Netflix.

Anup Chandrasekharan forays into films

CE FEATURE

ANUP Chandrasekharan, who has over three decades of experience in entertainment, and is known for bringing Puneeth Rajkumar to the small screen with Kannadada Kotiyadhipati and introducing popular reality shows like Pyate Hudgir Halli life, has plans to come up with web series and films through In10Media.

Speaking to a section of media, Anup said they have collaborated on two Tamil Films, which are in the initial stages of development, and now have a plethora of offerings for Kannada entertainment.

Anup also mentioned that one project is in the last stage of finalising the formalities. "We are in talks with a reputed actor in the industry for the project, and an official announcement will be made once we close the deal," he says.

The Hunchback Of Notre Dame satire Quasi gets a release date

CE FEATURES

A release date has finally been set for Quasi from Searchlight Pictures and Broken Lizard. The upcoming satirical comedy will debut on April 20, 2023. The film will serve as a satire on the classic story, The Hunchback of Notre Dame, by Victor Hugo. It will debut exclusively on all Disney-related streaming services worldwide, such as Hulu in the U.S., Star+ in Latin America, and Disney+ everywhere else.

Though additional information about the upcoming project remains under wraps, the film's logline states, "Quasi is the story of a hapless hunchback who only yearns for love, but finds himself in the middle of a murderous feud between the Pope and the King of France when each order the hunchback to kill the other."

Kevin Heffernan, who serves as director, pens the screenplay alongside Broken Lizard members Steve Lemme, Jay Chandrasekhar, Paul Soter, and Erik Stolhanske. The team will also star in the film alongside Adrianne Palicki (The Orville) in undisclosed roles. With the release date being announced, a trailer of the film is expected soon.

Initially published in 1831, the original novel remains one of the most popular stories in French literature, with several films and stage adaptations.

Quasi will debut exclusively on Disney's streaming platforms on April 20, 2023.
